

Russell Leads Kefauver In Key Primary Test In Florida

Taft Returns To Front In Delegate Race

By The Associated Press

Sen. Robert A. Taft clambered back above Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower yesterday in the up-and-down race for Republican nominating convention delegates, and first primary returns from his home state primary in Ohio showed signs of a really big boost.

At the same time Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia pulled out in front of Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee in the early count on Florida's popularity voting for the Democratic presidential nomination.

There were no convention delegates at stake in Florida but Kefauver seemed likely to go ahead of W. Averell Harriman on the day's delegate picking elsewhere. Taft got eight unopposed delegates in Ohio and picked up another pledged first ballot vote in a Missouri district convention for a total of 284. Eisenhower got two committed delegates from Missouri and one listed as "leaning" for a count of 281. The tabulation covers delegates pledged, instructed, favorable, willing to state a first ballot choice, or conceded by candidates.

The first fragmentary count in the Ohio Republican primary gave Taft's leading delegate candidate a four-to-one edge over the top man of a slate entered for Harold E. Stassen but the margin was cut down to about 9 to 7 on the next total reported.

The same tabulation gave Kefauver an edge over a favorite son delegation.

In Florida Russell's advantage started climbing with the first totals but by the time 722 of 1682 precincts were in he was only by about 2,750 votes ahead of Kefauver. Strongholds for each man were still unreported, however.

These were the developments on the political scene as voters in Ohio and Florida turned out in near record-breaking numbers to cast their ballots in two critical tests of strength.

In Ohio, Taft was pulling hard for a spectacular display of support in his own home state. The senator had put on an intensive drive, spurred by the knowledge that a weak showing would chill his chances for the GOP nomination in July.

Taft took an early lead in first meager returns in his home state.

Kefauver, seeking 31 of Ohio's 54 Democratic votes led in a contest with a favorite son slate supported by the state party organization.

The first five precincts to report in an at-large race to elect 10 Republican delegates gave the top Taft candidate 183 votes to 45 votes registered for the top candidate for former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota.

In a surprising show of early strength, James M. Carney, state representative from Cleveland, ran ahead of Michael V. DiSalle, former price stabilizer, in the race for the Democratic senatorial nomination. In five polling places, Carney had 290 to DiSalle's 121.

Former Gov. Thomas J. Herbert led Charles P. Taft, brother of senator, by 99 to 69 votes in eight precincts in the race for the Republican nomination for governor.

No popularity contest was involved and write-ins were barred. At stake were 56 delegate votes, with Taft seeking the full GOP slate against rivals pledged to Stassen.

Many of Stassen's candidates said they would support Eisenhower as second choice if elected to represent Ohio at the GOP National Convention in Chicago, beginning July 7.

Truman Attacks Realty Lobby

Washington (AP) — President Truman climated a bitter attack on the "real estate" lobby last night with a charge that "there have been certain things happening in this country that have been right down the alley Mr. Stalin wants us to go."

In what he described as a "whistle stop" talk, the President told a National Housing Conference banquet that he plans to go "from one end of the country to the other" as a private citizen after next January with a "hammer and tongs" attack on those who are trying to "hamstring" the government by cutting appropriations.

Irving Olds Retires

New York (AP) — Irving S. Olds retired yesterday as chairman of United States Steel Corp. and Benjamin F. Fairless was named to succeed him. Fairless also will continue as president.

McGranery Thinks President Must Exhaust Legal Powers Before Asserting New Claims

Washington (AP)—Judge James P. McGranery, backed into a corner by senators examining his fitness to be attorney general, said yesterday an American president must exhaust the powers given him by law before he can assert any claim to inherent powers.

Members of the Senate Judiciary Committee insisted that he give a "yes or no" answer to the question, which has been raised in the legal arguments whirling around President Truman's seizure of the steel industry.

If confirmed as attorney general, McGranery will have the responsibility of advising Truman on legal issues.

At first McGranery said he could not answer the question yes or no.

Earlier he had protested that he was being asked for "horseback opinions" on constitutional questions which have been pending throughout American history.

Wilson Thinks Wage Spiral Perils Defense

Washington (AP)—Former Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson told Congress yesterday that if the government recommended pay raise for steel workers spread through industry it will drive defense costs in the next year up by 5 to 6 billion dollars.

The former General Electric executive, who quit the mobilization post in the dispute over steel, made the estimate in a volunteer statement as a witness before the House Labor Committee in its investigation of the Wage Stabilization Board and its handling of the steel crisis.

After committeemen had about exhausted their stock of questions, Wilson said he had not been asked but he wanted to volunteer the suggestion that if the 26-cent hourly package recommended by the WSB for the CIO-Steelworkers is allowed to stand, Congress had better hike military appropriations.

If it "goes across industry," Wilson estimated, the resulting inflation will knock down the purchasing power of the 46 billion dollars now set up for defense, to no more than 41 or 42 billion.

So Congress had better raise the amount to 51 or 52 billion, he said.

Wilson in earlier testimony recommended that the WSB be stripped of power to recommend settlements in labor disputes, and advised the congressmen to make sure of a firm policy on pay and price controls in any extension of economic controls.

"If it is a flexible policy you cease to call it control," he said and suggested the WSB has "a new policy for each case." Wilson stated the "general belief" that the public members of the WSB worked in union with the labor members to the virtual exclusion of the industry representatives, and broadly implied it was planned that way.

Rep. Vail (R-Ill.) read from records of the House Un-American Activities Committee to indicate that half the public members were, or at one time had been, members of organizations cited as Communist fronts.

Vail did not name the individuals either then or later when questioned by reporters.

Wilson spoke of a steel stoppage as a "debacle."

He figured that government recommended raises for the CIO-Steelworkers would amount to about three times what the men have coming under the rules and would set an inflationary goal for other workers.

He took the stand that it is "not realistic" to expect the industry to absorb such a cost increase without raising prices.

And he accused President Truman of having "left me out on a limb" by changing his mind after telling Wilson to work out a compromise on the steel pay-price issue.

Dies Conferring Degree

Wage Board Asks Striking Oil Workers To Return; Resumption Of Talks Urged

Denver (AP)—The Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) yesterday asked oil workers to return to work as a nation-wide strike began to cramp commercial air transport and was even felt by the U. S. Air Force in Germany.

This is the seventh day of the strike by some 90,000 CIO, AFL and independent unionists over wage demands. The nation's oil refining capacity has been reduced by a third. Military aviation has been curtailed. The government ordered a 30 per cent cut in aviation gasoline supplies for commercial and private flyers.

WSB Chairman Nathan P. Feinsinger asked for an end to the strike and renewal of bargaining to settle issues. To both company and union, messages also suggested that all parties meet with the WSB next Tuesday. Feinsinger requested immediate replies.

Secretary of the Interior Chapman reiterated that the government does not plan rationing of motor gasoline.

He said in a statement the next step in dealing with developing shortages "will be an order earmarking specified quantities of supplies' inventories for emergency use as directed by the Petroleum Administration for defense."

Foreign Aid Bill Slashed

Washington (AP) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee yesterday voted to cut $1,010,900,000 from President Truman's $7,900,000,000 Foreign Aid Bill.

Chairman Richards (D-SC) said all of the cuts—aggregating 12.8 per cent—were from money requested for Europe.

The administration's request for $4,145,000,000 for military assistance to Europe was trimmed to $3,316,000,000—a 20 per cent reduction.

The committee voted a 10 per cent cut in defense support funds to provide the raw materials to spur European war production. The committee approved $1,637,300,000 of the administration's request for $1,819,200,000.

Gambling Tax Held Illegal; Appeal Slated

Philadelphia (AP) — A federal judge cracked down yesterday on a law that requires gamblers to buy a $50 tax stamp, calling it unconstitutional on the ground it is a police measure and not a tax bill.

U. S. District Judge George A. Welsh declared the measure illegal since its provisions required a man to be a witness against himself and an informer against others.

The 73-year-old jurist, a Republican on the bench since 1932, strongly attacked the measure and asked: "Is the purpose of the act a delegation of bureaucratic powers to create revenue or to constitute a host of informers?"

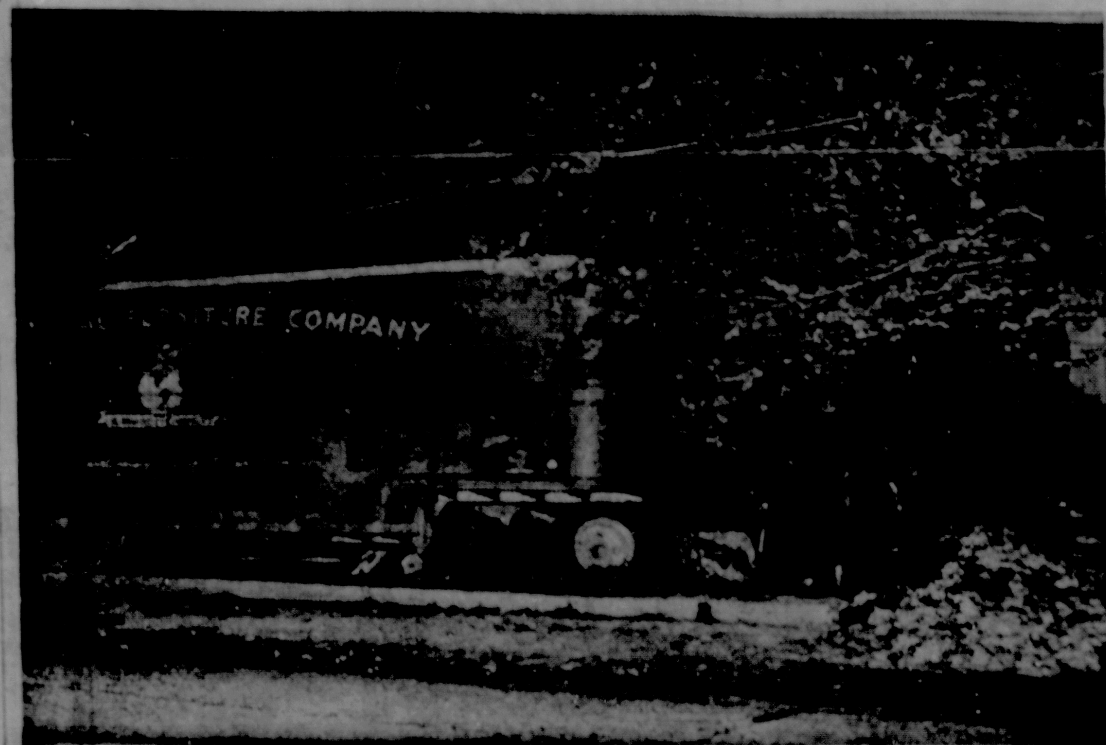

Specifically, the bill requires the gambler to list names, both real and aliases, and addresses of persons working for him.

Judge Welsh did not rule on the legality of another section of the act which requires gamblers to pay a 10 per cent tax on their earnings.

In Washington, the Justice Department was reported planning a quick appeal probably direct to the Supreme Court.

Vandenberg Will Undergo Surgery

Washington (AP) — Gen. Hoyt F. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff, became ill yesterday in his Pentagon office and will undergo surgery today. An Air Force spokesman said Vandenberg would enter Doctors Hospital for an operation, but did not disclose the nature of the surgery.

A SNAPPED TELEPHONE POLE dangles from its wires alongside the tractor trailer in which Alfred G. Wagner, Williamsport, was fatally injured at Delaware Water Gap yesterday. A rear wheel locked and the truck veered into the service pole. The stub end of the pole is visible beneath the trailer. The truck also pushed over a large tree. Small black object at curb is one of Wagner's shoes. To its right is a bloodstained suitcase which had been in the smashed cab. (Daily Record photo)

State To Open Bids May 16 On Local Job

The State Highway Department in Harrisburg yesterday announced the opening of bids on May 16 for resurfacing of 2.17 miles of U. S. Route 611 between Stroudsburg and Delaware Water Gap.

According to Raymond (Pete) Eilenberger, an official of the Monroe County Highway Department, this includes the route between the intersection of Routes 90 and 611 at the bottom of Foxtown Hill to the traffic light in Delaware Water Gap, located on Route 611.

The highway runs through Stroudsburg, Delaware Water Gap boroughs, Stroud and Smithfield Townships.

O. N. Lindahl, Director Of GSA, Expires

Harrisburg (AP) — Oscar N. Lindahl, of Pittsburgh, executive director of the General State Auditor, died yesterday at Harrisburg Hospital. He was 67.

The hospital said his death occurred at 4:30 p. m. He was taken to the hospital last week suffering from coronary thrombosis, a heart disease.

Lindahl, a retired vice president of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., became the first directing head of the GSA after it was recreated in 1949.

He made his home in Pittsburgh. The GSA was created by the 1949 Legislature as a borrow-and-build agency of the Commonwealth.

As head of the GSA, Lindahl directed the construction of more than 100 million dollars in State projects in the past 2 1/2 years.

Western Union Agrees To Talks

New York (AP) — Western Union reluctantly agreed yesterday after two refusals—to open peace talks in Washington today with its striking AFL Telegraphers.

The company said it was doing so by order of director Cyrus S. Ching of the Federal Mediation Service.

Ching said Monday he was acting under the Taft-Hartley Act in asking Western Union to agree to the meeting in an effort to end the 33-day-old strike of 30,000 telegraphers.

Wasp Docks With Hobson Survivors

New York (AP) — The crippled aircraft carrier Wasp limped in yesterday from a great sea disaster, greeted by scenes of wild joy—and the quiet tears of a little old lady in black.

The big flat-top hove to in Gravesend Bay with 61 survivors of the destroyer-minesweeper Hobson, sunk in mid-Atlantic April 26 in a collision with the Wasp. The ships were on maneuvers.

But 176 of the Hobson's crew didn't make it home. They were lost in four minutes of dark terror in a cold and stormy sea.

Army Supplies Worth Five Millions Stolen In Korea

Washington (AP)—More than five million dollars worth of goods have been stolen from the U. S. Army in Korea and much of the pilfered supplies have gone into the Korean black market, the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee disclosed yesterday.

The defense watchdog group made public a memorandum received from the Army which stated:

One—Goods valued at $5,114,420 were stolen between Jan. 1 of last year and Feb. 9 of this year.

Two—Korean authorities "have frequently been apathetic toward American attempts to abolish the black market."

Three—About two million dollars worth of the stolen Army goods have been recovered and these recoveries now average about $40,000 a month.

Commenting on the Army memorandum, Chairman Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) said it shows, "that there is a Korean black market despite the best efforts of American authorities to shut it down."

The Senate group asked for the report, Johnson said, after receiving "a number of complaints of large-scale black market operations from independent observers who have been in Korea."

The Army, after an investigation by the Far East Command, said it is true that large amount of Army supplies have been stolen. But it denied reports that "remedial action has not been taken or that Army supply has been seriously affected."

The Army said a war-time scarcity of food and clothing in Korea had spurred "participation in theft and black market activities."

Army personnel who normally guard against thefts and black markets have been moved into combat, the report said.

Air Force Cuts Flying In Europe

Frankfurt, Germany (AP) —The U. S. Air Force has ordered a sharp reduction in all its military flying in Europe because of the U. S. oil workers' strike, an Air Force spokesman said last night.

Authorities Probe $400,000 Embezzlement Of Bank Funds

Perth Amboy, N. J. (AP) — Authorities combed statements and records yesterday for dollars and cents answers to the town-roking embezzlement of $400,000 from the First Bank and Trust Co.

U. S. Atty. Grover C. Richman requested the FBI to aid local officials, still dazed by the scandal that crumpled a pillar of respectability, 50-year-old William C. Horley, vice president of the bank.

Richman said he planned to confer with Middlesex County Prosecutor Alex Eber to determine whether state or federal agencies will handle prosecution of the tall, jut-jawed bank executive.

Richman indicated that, although federal jurisdiction is involved since bank funds were insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., state authorities will follow the case through.

Eber, reportedly closeted in his New Brunswick office with bank officials and aides, was unavailable for comment on the progress of the investigation.

Earlier, Eber told reporters there were a lot of angles still to be straightened out and many questions still unanswered by the quiet, unassuming banker. Bank statements and financial records were under a fine tooth comb wielded by Eber's staff.

Horley, bespectacled, his straight, graying hair receding a bit, is free in $25,000 bail pending action by a grand jury on the embezzlement charge. He pleaded innocent.

Eber described Horley as a sort of a modern-day Robin Hood who has the "unfortunate characteristic of being a very generous man."

"He liked to help people," Eber said. "He made personal loans with bank funds."

Williamsport Man Suffers Fatal Injuries

A 28-year-old Williamsport man was killed almost instantly at 3 a. m. yesterday when his tractor-trailer truck went out of control at the main intersection in Delaware Water Gap, clipped off a telephone pole and knocked over a tree towering about 40 feet into the air.

Alfred George Wagner died en route to the General Hospital in East Stroudsburg shortly after the crash. Dr. William E. Andrew, Monroe County coroner who investigated, said he died of a fractured skull.

His body was released to the Daniel G. Warner funeral home, Stroudsburg. In the afternoon a Williamsport funeral director, Le-Ray R. Sanders, claimed the body.

Fred Decker, chief of police at Delaware Water Gap, was among the first to reach the scene. The accident occurred near his home. According to Decker the driver apparently attempted to cut his speed as he drove north toward Stroudsburg, but blackened tire marks about 50 yards south of the crash scene indicated his right rear wheel locked, spinning him to the west side of the road.

Decker also said Wagner suffered a crushed left leg and possible fracture ribs when the truck's cab was crushed.

The truck was owned by International Furniture Co., Montoursville. While the cab was completely demolished, the trailer portion was damaged only slightly. The cab, folded like an accordion, told the story of Wagner's death; the dashboard was pushed to within 18 inches of the most distant point of the driver's seat.

Impact of the crash ripped an over-head traffic signal from its mooring, sending the light crashing to the ground. Another truck traveling north crashed into the fallen light, but no damage resulted. Flares, supplied by police and other truck drivers helped light up the highway scene, darkened when electric lines were torn down by the crash.

The felled tree which halted the truck's motion towered high above the others and was about a foot in diameter.

Ripped to shreds was the gasoline tank, and its contents strewn over the highway. Five hours after the crash Chief Decker, still at the scene, cautioned spectators against dropping lighted cigarettes in the vicinity for fear the gasoline would ignite.

Pfc. Alex G. Kern, of the Stroudsburg State police sub-station, was summoned but the investigation was conducted by Chief Decker.

Wagner lived at 711 Second St. in Williamsport. Funeral services will be held Friday at the Sanders funeral home there. Burial will be at the Montoursville Cemetery.

Wagner was a World War Two veteran who was born in Lock Haven, Pa.

Surviving are his wife and five children; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Wagner Sr.; two sisters; and his maternal grandparents.

Choruses To Appear At Two Schools

Approximately 80 members of Stroudsburg High School's choral music department will make a trip to two Northeastern Pennsylvania high schools Thursday morning for concert appearances.

The first of these two appearances will be made at 11 a. m. Thursday at Coughlin High School in Wilkes-Barre where the girls' chorus, madrigal singers and the mixed chorus will perform.

Following a luncheon at the Wilkes-Barre school, the chorus is scheduled to appear at Kingston High School at 2:30 p. m. for a second performance.

The Kingston student body has planned a party and dance in the Stroudsburg choruses' honor after the second concert.

The chorus members this year are responsible for the choice of numbers which appear on their program. Basically the concert follows an abbreviated form of the "spring concert" which was held here last month.

Choral Director Numa Snyder said yesterday that the current trip is the third annual undertaking of this sort, previous performances having been given in Northampton, Liberty High School in Bethlehem and Palmerton.

Ruth Fetherman serves as piano accompanist for the Decemets, a group taken from the membership of the girls chorus while Kathryn Ann Hickey is accompanist for the remainder of the groups.

Memorial Committee Maps Plans

Memorial programs were discussed and plans advanced for memorial services by the Monroe County Joint Memorial Committee at its monthly meeting in the Evans-Blitz, American Legion, Post Home at Mountainhome.

All veterans' organizations were invited to assist in the placing of flags on veterans' graves throughout the county before Memorial day.

All members were asked to turn out for the funeral of Robert O. Fish at the Warner funeral home, Stroudsburg, at 2 p. m. today. Military honors will be accorded.

The committee went on record to join with the East Stroudsburg Elks in celebrating Flag day on June 14 by way of the destruction of all discarded American flags with ceremonial procedure.

The June meeting of the committee will be held at the George N. Kemp, American Legion, Post

Home, East Stroudsburg at 2 p. m. June 5.

It is estimated that one million Americans have undetected diabetes.

Carol Carpenter Valedictorian Of East Stroudsburg Seniors; Two Share Salutatorian Honors

East Stroudsburg High School this year has come up with three honor students in its valedictorian-salutatorian finals.

Carol Carpenter was named valedictorian yesterday while second highest honors were split between Geraldine Chobey and Anthony DeLuca.

The two-way tie was declared unavoidable after school officials had carried the grade averages of the two students out to "the third decimal point."

It was finally decided that the two students should share in the salutatorian honors.

Miss Carpenter, the valedictorian, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Carpenter, 760 Milford Road, East Stroudsburg. In addition to her high grade average, she has been active in many school affairs, among them the school band. She was awarded a "youth-of-the-month" citation by the East Stroudsburg Exchange Club earlier this year and is a member of the National Honor Society. She also received the "Good Citizenship Award" made by the DAR.

Miss Carpenter will attend Cedarcrest College for Women in Allentown this fall on a scholarship.

Miss Chobey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chobey, 343 Crystal St., East Stroudsburg. She is a member of the girls' chorus and the girls' ensemble; the National Honor Society and the Tri-Hi-Y. She is enrolled in a commercial course at the high school and is employed by the Stroudsburg Bell telephone office.

DeLuca is the son of Anthony DeLuca, 228 N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg.

He has been extremely active in

Specialist To Speak On Guidance

Two major features of tonight's special public meeting at Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church offer residents of Monroe County an opportunity to know and understand the problems of adolescence and childhood in an authoritative manner.

The first of these is a discussion and address by Dr. Charles Morris of the Eastern (Monroe-Northampton) Child Guidance Clinic.

Dr. Morris for many years was supervisor of special education for Montgomery County and is now associated with St. Christopher's Children's Hospital in Philadelphia, an affiliate of Temple University.

He is a graduate of both Bucknell University and New York University, having received most of his training in psychiatry and psychology at the latter institution.

In addition to spending two days per week at the Eastern clinic, Dr. Morris maintains a private practice in Philadelphia.

During World War Two he served as an aviation psychologist in the medical service corps. He has published a number of articles on child guidance, both in clinical journals and in pamphlet form.

Second in importance on tonight's orientation program is the film "Angry Boy," a dramatization of the story of Tommy Randall, a pre-adolescent boy whose home life and family tensions have created a serious emotional disorder.

The film was written by Irving Jacoby and produced by Affiliated Film Producers, Inc.

Woods Fires Dangerous And Costly

We have just been reading the editorial pages of two newspapers which come in to this office regularly. One is from Carbondale, Pennsylvania; the other from Port Jervis, New York.

Both papers had for their lead editorial the ravages of fire in their respective areas when dry weather and careless motorists or fishermen throw lighted cigarette butts or matches into dry grass and leaves in the woods.

Both of these areas have had, within the past week, probably the most disastrous woods fires experienced in many years. In both instances these fires are reportedly the result of carelessness.

The Poconos are not immune from such conflagrations. As a matter of fact during the last week in April the Big Pocono section witnessed a widespread blaze which spread over thousands of acres.

We have had plenty of rain of late; but we have had a following of daily wind currents far greater than usual, which have tended to dry out the woods more quickly than is usually the case.

So a recurrence of this year's big conflagration which was a repeat of the big one in the Cresco section last year is more than a possibility. The fire in the Big Pocono section, according to police, was incendiary. Let's not add to this danger by being careless with inflammables carried on the person. Another time it might take lives as well as huge property loss.

Campaign Abuses

New records for political spending appear to be likely this year in the presidential and congressional campaigns,

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington—The New York Journal-American, at the risk of turning the 1952 Presidential race into a quiz contest, has been asking candidates from both parties a number of important questions bearing on foreign and domestic affairs.

Two leading presidential aspirants, as well as Gen. Douglas MacArthur, declined to answer the questions. MacArthur refused to reply on the grounds that he is not a candidate, and that his views are known anyway on issues raised by William Randolph Hearst, Jr., publisher of the Journal-American.

The other two who said "No," thanks," Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and W. Averell Harriman, cannot be excused for the reasons put forth by Gen. MacArthur. Harriman, however, may be sympathized with in his reluctance, since he was only recently named New York State's favorite son in the Democratic contest. He was selected, probably without his knowledge, by the Democratic machine bosses in the state, and it may be that he hasn't as yet accustomed himself to such lofty heights.

Eisenhower's declination is a different story. He shouldn't be excused, since Senator Robert Taft, Harold Stassen and Gov. Earl Warren, all GOP hopefuls, stepped up and took the quiz.

General Eisenhower can't be excused on the grounds that he isn't in the race. His backers are predicting a first ballot nomination for him and they have entered his name in several state contests with his permission. So nobody gets hurt but the general in continuing the fiction that he is a political mummy. He has always had plenty to say in the past, on any number of questions, including political ones. This was especially true during his tenure in office as president of Columbia University, and even then he was still subject to the whims of his commander-in-chief, Harry Truman.

Bill Hearst's questions included a nifty concern for the need for amending the constitution of the U. S. to bar the United Nations from usurping the freedoms guaranteed to us by that document.

Senator Taft wants a constitutional amendment limiting the power of the UN; Gov. Warren thinks a constitutional amendment is not needed; Stassen says in the American Bar association can handle the problem; Senator with television added to radio as a costly element and with many tight contests in prospect for nomination or election.

And in light of the temper of the times it is also quite probable that this year's battles for Federal office will have more than the usual political smearing involved in them, with the net result that there may be a renewed effort to overhaul Federal statutes governing campaign contributions, expenditures, and practices.

Certainly the spending limits of $5000 in contests for House seats and $25,000 in Senate contests are evaded because the restrictions are meaningless in the light of the growth of the electorate, the decline in the value of the dollar, and increasing dependence on such expensive campaign accessories as television and radio.

The Federal Corrupt Practices Act purports to limit the congressional expenditures, as indicated, and a limit of $3,000,000 on spending by national committees is set by the Hatch Act. Other provisions include limiting individual contributions to $5000, a rule obviously capable of evasion by such actions as "loaning" large sums to national committees and then assuming these loans as uncollectable and thus deductible for income tax purposes, as we have recently seen.

A new bill was introduced last month to raise expenditure limits to realistic levels, and to make mandatory reports of all contributions to a central Washington office, and made available for publication in clear and concise form.

What action will be taken on this bill remains to be seen, but certainly the changing times and customs demand a review of present political campaign controls.

Union of South Africa leads the world in production of gold.

My New York

—By Mel Heimer

New York—I have been spending this morning feeling deeply sorry for the author named Gene Fowler, although I must admit the situation is not so tragic that one good book by Mr. Fowler can't change it all around and brighten the scene considerably.

Next to my champagne bucket and the coffee table I painted white myself, the most valuable item in my apartment is the bookcase, which covers one wall and stretches to the ceiling. There are six shelves in the case but Shelf No. 4 is the one that counts. Mr. Fowler's seven books that I own once were on Shelf No. 4, but now they are on No. 5 and it makes me sad, as if I were watching a onetime star actress playing a bit role in a road-company show. It is, of course, his own fault; when he wrote his first novel Trumpet in the Dust and now that I look at Shelf No. 5, who stole my Trumpet in the Dust? he automatically made Shelf No. 4, but after a couple of his most recent efforts I regretfully gathered up the Fowlers and arranged them wistfully on No. 5.

I have been eyeing Shelf No. 4 as I write this, and I am wondering if Freud to whom I am quite respectful, but who is No. 5, could make a psychological pattern out of it. I have on No. 4, for instance, 18 books by William Saroyan, beginning with his wonderful The Daring Young Man on the Flying Trapeze and coming right down to Tracy's Tiger.

No. 4 also includes nine books by Noel Coward, one autographed by the old bittersweet master himself, and three by Erich Maria Remarque, including Arch of Triumph, which prompted one of the few literary fan letters I ever have written. I wrote to Denver Lindley, the co-translator of the book, to tell him what a superb job he had done.

Shelf No. 4 has four books by Truman Capote, the 26-year-old Zip-the-What-Is-it of belles lettres, and five by H. L. Menckens, who is perhaps the most professional writer alive in the world today. Then there are four worn and yellowed volumes by Michael Arlen—although not, alas, The Green Hat, which is like keeping Shakespeare's works without Hamlet. There are eight Scott Fitzgeralds, side by side with the Arlens because they were of the same lovely, empty world, and the Mizener biography of Fitzgerald next to them, because of its subject.

Nine books by Graham Greene round out Shelf No. 4, and I have been considering putting a special spotlight over The End of the Affair, as the current book-of-the-shelf. Up on Shelf No. 5, we find the ones who haven't quite made the big time or the ones who, like Fowler, were there once and are not now.

Rex Stout is on Shelf No. 5, for example, and so are Sean O'Casey, James M. Cain, Dashiell Hammett and Stanley Walker. I find Willie Seabrook's Asylum there and Robert Payne's Forever China, and a half-don Paul Gallico, among which only The Snow Goose seems to hold year after year.

Shelf No. 3 is the peculiar one; as I look now I see Antoine de Saint-Exupery's Wind, Sand and Stars there, and the moment I leave off this work at the mill I will put it back on Shelf No. 4 where it belongs. John O'Hara is on Shelf No. 3—the classic Appointment in Samarra and then all the others, running clear down to the trashy A Rage to Live.

Lucius Beebe is on Shelf No. 3, and so is Salvato Dali, Doris Lilly, George Frazier, S. J. Perelman, James Thurber and H. Allen Smith.

It's when you get down to Shelf No. 2 that you really find my machine-gun scorn leveled. Here

BETWEEN THE HAMMER AND THE ANVIL

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

Far be it from me to stick my nose into the troubles that now exist all over the country between labor unions and management.

President Truman did it and look at the mess into which he got himself.

With all the talent now at work to solve the labor problems I certainly don't feel authorized or able to add anything, nor to suggest a solution.

But as an ordinary human being who is deeply affected, both in his heart and in his pocket-book, by all this turmoil, I want to make a few observations.

These observations concern you as much as they do me. They are NOT politics—I have promised you not to write about politics. They are just plain, ordinary, common horse-sense.

It seems to me that there is enough tragedy, enough suffering, enough grief in this world without us here at home being at one another's throat, hating and reviling one another.

It seems that with a little more kindness, a bit better understanding, a little more sympathy with our fellow man's feelings, people ought to be able to sit down and work out their grievances.

Life is very brief at its best. The $100,000 a year executive, in a short while, may be the

are Past Imperfect by Ilka Chase (who spoiled my evening at South Pacific by talking quite brightly and loudly at critical moments, in the seat in front of me), Gentlemen's Agreement, The Black Rose (how did that get in any of my shelves?) and something by Erskine Caldwell called, All-Out on the Road to Smolensk, that obviously was a Christmas present or something forced on me when I lost an election bet.

Ernie Pyle, alas, is on Shelf No. 2, and Gerald Kersh's Faces in a Dusty Picture, which my literary agent discovered for the American public and over which we still argue mildly.

President without the aid of the Democrats or "independent" voters. Therefore, the activity of Democrats, wherever lawful, in Republican primaries foretells the election of the Republican candidate who can attract to himself Democratic voters:

1. That the Republicans cannot elect a President without the aid of the Democrats or "independent" voters. Therefore, the activity of Democrats, wherever lawful, in Republican primaries foretells the election of the Republican candidate who can attract to himself Democratic voters:

2. That the Democrats have devised a means for nullifying the Republican primaries, so that the Republican candidate is chosen not by his partisans but by those who seek his defeat on election day.

Theory No. 1 represents the Eisenhower position; theory No. 2, the Taft position.

Across both runs the disclosure of Sam Roseman that Franklin D. Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie were developing plans for a coalition party under their apparent joint leadership. It could only be apparent, not real, because Roosevelt was actually in the White House, he would be the top man in such an arrangement and the Willkie Republicans would necessarily have been absorbed by the Roosevelt New Dealers. It was a plan for the obliteration of the Republican Party.

Again, it must be borne in mind that the original Eisenhower supporters planned for him to be nominated by both the Democratic and Republican parties. General Eisenhower is reported to have told General MacArthur in Tokyo that he expected to be nominated by both parties. At that time, the principal manager of General Eisenhower's boom was George Allen, Democrat and associate of Harry Truman. The plan seems to have been a continuation of the Roosevelt-Willkie scheme for the capture of the Republican Party by the Democrats by infiltration and absorption.

Further, in the development of this plan is the enervating slogan: "Taft is the best man, but he cannot win." As the Republicans have not won an election since 1932, this slogan, widespread and continuous in its use, has frightened many Republicans who would prefer to win under any circumstances. The slogan has encouraged many Republicans to believe or hope that if they had a candidate for whom Democrats would vote, they could win at long last. Even if the Presidential candidate were not quite a partisan, the Senate and House would become Republican as the result of a landslide.

The direction of these movements is toward a one-party system such as Mussolini developed in Italy, Hitler in Germany, and such as now exists in each of the Soviet countries. There is nothing sacrosanct about the two party system, except that it actually serves the people better than the multi-party arrangement, such as exists in France where governments topple overnight, or the one-party system which enslaves the whole people to a self-perpetuating elite.

In this country, the two-party system has been developed to a greater efficiency than anywhere else, for the opposition party not only is capable of forcing the majority party to disclose its purposes and activities to the people, but by minority representation on the committees of both houses of Congress, the minority party is never without responsibility.

The reduction of the two-party system to a farce, as it must be when the members of one party vote in the primaries of the other party, could, in time, alter the political procedures of the country by making, let us say, Republican candidates for a nomination dependent upon Democrats. It is like boss Hague of New Jersey selecting, in the good old days, both the Democratic and Republican candidates, for Governor—so that no matter who won, Hague managed.

When it is coarsely stated in terms of a Hague overlordship, it is reprehensible to most Americans. But when the process is refined into Democrats voting in the Republican primaries, it does not appear to be so offensive. Actually it is worse, for it involves a subversion of the concept of the primary.

The trend among bankers and big business men to support a one-party system is characteristic of their revolt against the professional politician, who is no longer dependent upon them for funds. Democratic politicians get their money from labor unions and liberals; Republicans find campaign funds more readily in the Middle West and in Texas than in Wall Street and Pittsburgh. The bankers and business men therefore seek a coalition of influence, which can be a one-party system set up by them.

Their error is that Fascism is as abhorrent to the American people as Communism.

Hollywood

—by Gene Handsaker

Hollywood — Sam Goldwyn's "Hans Christian Andersen" seemed, even as I stood on the set, to be a jinxed movie indeed.

A workman hauled a light-shade up to a catwalk above. Whammo!—It swung over and knocked the glass out of a window in Copenhagen Square.

Jeanmaire, a shapely, statuesque ballet dancer from France, suddenly discovered an unbecoming looseness in the back of her costume. "Crisis!" muttered Danny Kaye, with fluttering eyebrows, as she complained to the costume woman.

There had been more serious setbacks earlier. The original feminine star, Moira Shearer, (whom Jeanmaire replaced) discovered she was pregnant. Kaye was out three days with laryngitis. Jeanmaire pulled an ankle tendon and lost eight days from the picture.

Then Danny Kaye's father died in New York. Danny had flown back for the funeral.

Too, there was that controversy with Denmark, which added to Mr. Goldwyn's worries. The Danish foreign press secretary expressed resentment that Kaye, a comedian, a mere song and dance man, should portray their serene national hero. The official said he understood there were biographical inaccuracies in the script.

Goldwyn replied that the film was never intended as a biography. It was supposed to be a possible incident in Andersen's life.

An original shooting schedule of 100 days appears to be stretching on toward four months. And now Danny Kaye, in the scene I watched, was supposed to smash through a balala-wood

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

Letters For Special Delivery

Dr. Frank L. Boyden, Headmaster, Deerfield Academy

Dear Doc, Everybody is thinking about the steel seizure, the court decisions, Harry Truman, the constitution and the future of America but I am just thinking about you and a horse. How are you doing? They both take me back to a less befuddled, cockeyed and chaotic way of life. The other day a lot of folks who wanted to honor you for your fifty years in education at Deerfield, in looking around for a nice gift, came up with a horse and buggy which they presented to you at the Waldorf-Astoria. I have been thinking of it ever since . . . no diamond, no watch, no fat purse, no dream house, no trip to Sun Valley all expenses paid . . . not even your house painted inside and out . . . just a HORSE AND BUGGY! In my book, doctor, it's the Gift of the Decade, one of the few grand prizes that make sense.

Up in that little Massachusetts town you like to drive around in something close to the surrey with the fringe on top. You are one of the few Americans left who has the impulse and courage to do it. Your secret ambition has always been to run a lively stable. You are a man after my own heart, doc. A feller who has never driven a horse and buggy, known the thrill of hitching up Dobbin and felt the thrill of driving down Main Street in a rig with red wheels, has missed something. I knew those satisfactions back when going out for a ride didn't call for bad breeding, terrible manners, tall profanity and a disrespect for everything else door and confront Jeanmaire and Farley Granger. Danny's first break-through didn't satisfy the director. They shot the scene twice more, after carpenters had installed replacement doors sawed into invisible sections, like a jigsaw puzzle, to shatter easily.

Granger, supposed to hit Kaye with a cane, had difficulty doing it realistically without actually striking him.

I heard a junior executive mutter to someone, "The old man (Goldwyn) is jump these days. I duck when I see him coming." Anybody want to be a movie producer?

East Stroudsburg Council Buys Police-Fire Radio System

Plans Strict Enforcement Of Meter Law

East Stroudsburg Council awarded a contract to supply a two-way police and fire radio system to the Motorola Co. last night.

Motorola was the only bidder. Cost of the equipment will be $3,319.45.

The equipment includes three hand-talkies for use of the fire company, two permanent land stations, one in the secretary's office and one in the police station—and two mobile units, one in the police squad car and one in the streets department truck.

Approval of the bid was by a four to two vote. Against the move was Harold Wiggins, council president, and Verdon T. Gilliland. Approving were Jack Wyckoff, who is also the borough's fire chief, Charles Buerzli, Roy F. Lloyd and Thomas Sexton.

Delivery will be made and installation started in a few months. It is first necessary for the Federal communications department to assign a frequency.

Two bids on automatic parking meters were rejected by council.

Instead, council decided to make a six-month test of strict meter enforcement. It was decided to start the enforcement Friday.

On and after that day, borough officers will no longer turn the handles on the present parking meters. If the red flag is showing, the motorist will be issued a ticket.

The recreation committee recommended the following persons to serve at the borough playground:

Lewis Hastie, reappointed director; Delores Sell, Mary Sue Harvey and Sandra Seor, basketball attendants at the swimming pool; playground supervisor, Frank Presty; guards, Thomas Foley, Donald Transue; (another supervisor and one more guard remain to be appointed); and Lois Hamer, cashier.

It was decided to erect two-hour parking signs on Maple Ave. The request of a Bushkill resident who wanted to live in a tent on a vacant lot on Monroe St. for the summer was turned down.

Council decided to have Ernest Younkin, borough health officer, attend all regular meetings of council.

Teenagers Plan Dance

Bushkill — Teenagers of this community are planning a square dance to be staged at Bushkill Fire House Friday night, May 23.

Junior committee preparing for the event includes Joan Dowling, Sylvia Faucett, Anita Keiper, Ruth Minter, Katherine Riedmiller, George Angle, Warren Eshback, Josh Heller and Harold Lits. The group will hold their second meeting this week to further plans.

Assisting the juniors as members of the adult committee are Mrs. Chester British, Mrs. John Britton, Mrs. Lawrence Butz, Mrs. Cornelia Faucett, Mrs. Andrew Lewis and Mrs. Albert Schoonover.

Rev. Levergood Conducts Service

Poplar Valley — Rev. Clyde Levergood conducted a special service in honor of mothers and the home at Poplar Valley Church Sunday morning. Both the junior and senior choirs offered selections.

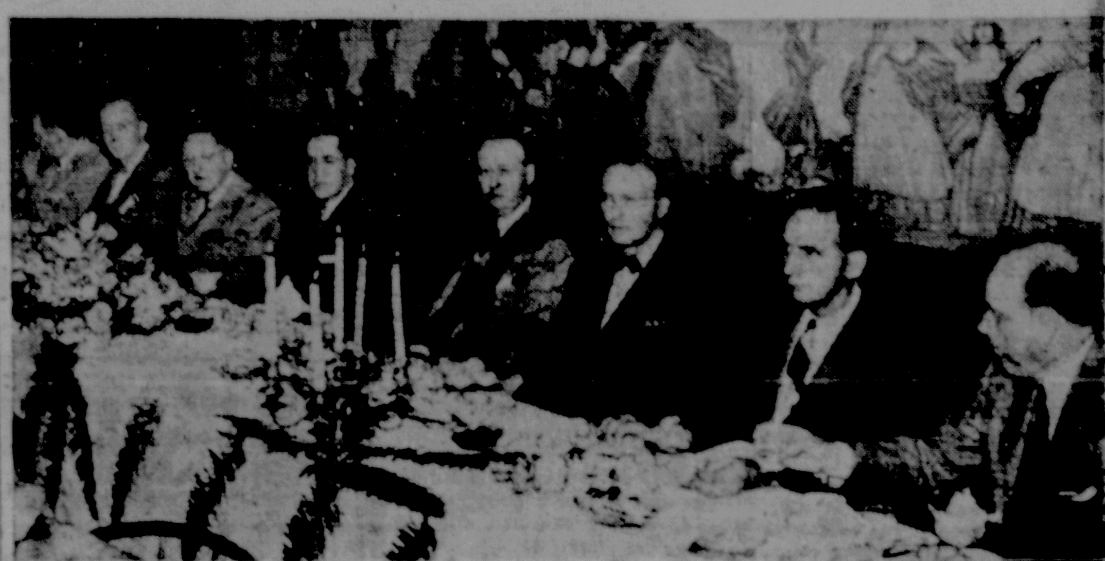

Mrs. Paul Albert, Mrs. Ernest Brewer and Mrs. Fred Dennis assisted in devotions. Family groups received communion in a body, marking the first time many children received.

Services of the same nature occurred at Kellersville church Sunday night. The Cherry Valley Church will hold a special Mother's Day service on Sunday, and the Poplar Valley Church also will hold a similar program.

Pvt. Jones Graduates At Army School

Portland—Pvt. Frank A. Jones, whose wife Ruth lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Olshewsky at Kittatiny Beach, Columbia RD, recently graduated from Discussion Leaders School at Headquarters, United States Troops in Trieste.

The school is conducted to train personnel in informing men stationed in Trieste on news of both civilian and military importance.

Private Jones is assigned as a gunner on a rocket launcher in Company B of the 351st Infantry Regiment. He was graduated from Blairstown, N. J. High School in 1946 and attended Rutgers University before entering the Army in July, 1951. He was formerly employed as a carpenter by his brother, George W. Jones in Blairstown.

Jack Eagle's Art Exhibit On Display

An exhibit demonstrating the various techniques used by a young Allentown artist, Jack Eagle, opened this week at the Stoff Gallery, 41 N. Ninth St., Allentown.

Eagle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Eagle. The father was formerly editor of the now defunct Morning Star, published in East Stroudsburg.

The elder Eagle was active in Monroe County affairs and was one of the guiding forces behind the organization of the "Three Arts Group" in this area for the encouragement of activity in music, painting and drama.

Jack Eagle was born in East Stroudsburg and lived in that area, attending the East borough school, for a period of 16 years.

He is employed by an Allentown newspaper.

Parole Granted To Roy Isely

Ray G. Isely, 25, of 15 Crystal St., East Stroudsburg, was paroled from the county jail Monday after a court hearing. He had been serving a year's sentence for the involuntary manslaughter of Willis E. Ensminger, fatally injured by a car while walking near his Tobyhanna home last October 21. Isely had been in jail since that time. He later pleaded guilty on the manslaughter charge before President Judge Fred W. Davis. Isely was represented yesterday by Attorney Forrest Mervine.

Bates Funeral Held Yesterday

Services for William D. Bates, 83, Ananionk, were held yesterday at Lanterman funeral home, East Stroudsburg, with Rev. Ralph H. Feltham officiating. Burial was at McComas Cemetery, near Canadensis. Pallbearers were LeRoy Sebring, George Bush, C. E. Metzger, Chester A. Coleman, Russell Barry, and Clarence Lee. Washington Camp, POS of A. Ananionk, conducted memorial services at the funeral home Monday night.

Former County Pastor Dies

Portland—Rev. George Pifer, pastor of the Bechtelsville Lutheran Church, died suddenly Monday night at his home in Royersford.

He had recently undergone surgery at Pottstown Hospital. He was born in Jefferson City, a son of the late George and Hannah Wolf Pifer and had previously served as pastor of Lutheran churches in Minisink Hills and East Bangor.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. in Christ Lutheran Church, Niant, Pa. Interment will be made in Lutheran Cemetery at Trappe.

Local Woman Treasurer Of District PTA

Local representatives to the annual conference of the Northeast District of the Pennsylvania Congress of Parents and Teachers held in Pottsville Saturday were Mrs. David Mazer, Monroe PTA Council president, and Mrs. Merle Stevenson.

In the election of officers, Mrs. Stevenson was named treasurer of the district organization for a three-year period.

Mrs. George Bosak of Scranton was elected district president. Mrs. Bosak assisted with the school of instruction which was held at East Stroudsburg last year.

The Stroudsburg PTA received a gold leaf award for attaining its membership goal of a 10 per cent increase during the past year.

Announcement was made that the State PTA convention will be held at Pocono Manor October 20 through 22.

A summer session for local leaders will be held this year at Millersville State Teachers College. Every PTA organization was urged to subsidize a representative to the training session for PTA work.

Swink Lists 48 Arrests

Of the 48 arrests made by East Stroudsburg borough officers last month, 22 were for speeding, Police Chief Arthur Swink reported to borough council last night.

Next largest number of arrests was 13, for stop sign violations. The others were: running through a red light, four; being drunk and disorderly, five; disorderly conduct, four.

Chief Swink reported $355 collected in fines during the month.

Tulsa Chorus Greeted By Large Audience

The University of Tulsa Chorus, conducted by Arthur D. Hestwood, gave a concert last night at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College auditorium before a large and enthusiastic local audience.

The appearance of the choral group locally was sponsored by the Stroudsburg Rotary Club for the benefit of its charities fund.

One of the highlights on the program was the first performance of a suite for piano and male voices "I'll Wait For My Love" by Tom Waring. Miss Elvina Truman was solo pianist for the performance.

Also featured on the first portion of the program were a Motet based on the 51st Psalm featuring the entire chorus and the "Pilgrim's Song" by Teichowsky, with the male quartet.

The choir was heard in the Kopylow-Wilhouisky "Heavenly Light," Samuel Barber's "Let Down The Bars, O Death," and "His Coming In Glory," an adaptation of the Prelude and Fugue in B flat by Bach, arranged by Harry Simeone.

Miss Truman played Dohnanyi's "Capriccio" as a prelude to the performance of "I'll Wait For My Love."

The second portion of the program opened with the choir singing the Simeone arrangement for voice of Teichowsky's "Nutcracker Suite."

The Oscar Hammerstein-Jerome Kern ballad "All the Things You Are" and three tunes by Tom Scott — "Sing Song Kitty," "The Gallows Tree" and "Wallie, Wallie" swung the concert back into a more popular vein.

A second tune by Tom Waring, the perennial "So Beats My Heart For You," provided another popular song for the chorus' talents. The choir closed the second part of the program with a Simeone transcription of Enesco's "Romanian Rhapsody."

In its third and final portion, the chorus "let its hair down" with a variety of western tunes, spirituals and a square dance to enthusiastic applause from the audience.

Birth Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Weeks, 20 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, became the parents of a son on Friday, May 2. The child was born at home.

Couple Seeks Information On G.I. Son

A Dover, N.J., couple reached out to Monroe County yesterday on the slim hope that some veteran of the Korean fighting might know something of the disappearance of their son, missing since Dec. 3, 1950.

He was Cpl. Thomas C. Estwick, member of the third platoon, Co. E, Second Battalion, Seventh Regt., First Marine Division. A replacement who had been under fire a short time, he was wounded in the chest and right shoulder, his parents said.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Estwick Sr., of 24 Mount Hope Ave., Dover, said their son was last seen when he was wounded in the reservoir area of Yudam-ni, north of the 38th parallel where the First Marines fought their way out of a trap to reach the east coast.

Organizations Meet Jointly

Effort — A joint meeting of the Women's Society for Christian Service of both Tannersville and Effort was held at the IOOF hall here.

Mrs. Francis Beers, retiring president of the Effort society directed the meeting. Mrs. Walter Johnston of Stroudsburg was guest speaker. Her subject was "Parsonage Family."

Offering was donated to the Philadelphia Home for the Aged. A buffet luncheon was served and a social hour followed. Rev. and Mrs. Johnston and Rev. and Mrs. LeRoy Barnard were among those present.

County Home Staff Lauded By Jurors

The grand jury wound up its work in a single day yesterday. It heard the one case presented to it in the morning, then moved to an inspection of county facilities and buildings.

The jury commended the county home superintendent and his staff for the "excellent condition of the buildings and grounds and for the cleanliness of the premises."

It was suggested that the fire hoses at the home be tested.

At the county jail jurors recommended repointing of the exterior stone work and brick where necessary, and repair or replacement of rain gutters and downspouts.

The doors and wood trim in the living quarters and sheriff's office should be repainted and the living room on the first floor redecorated, the jury suggested.

Other recommendations:

Veterans Affairs and Children's Aid building: lay linoleum on the second floor of the VA building and install locks on the windows; install screens on the windows in both buildings; paint the outside of the building and provide new rain gutters where needed; perform "badly-needed" repairs to a portion of the roof and re-flash where needed.

State Clinic building: repair and properly support the trap door cellar entrance.

Courthouse: repair leaks in the exterior wall and ceiling of the law library as "neglect may cause damage to the books;" re-tread or otherwise repair the exterior steps at the Monroe St. entrance to correct a "dangerous" condition and present the "least possible hazard to the public."

The report was submitted by jury Foreman Sue Price and read to the court by John D. Garcia Jr., secretary.

Apply For License

James Hannon, Freehold, and Audrey Mae Kader, Effort, applied at the courthouse yesterday for a marriage license.

Grand Jury Indicts Man In Fatality

A true bill was returned by the grand jury yesterday in the case of Jack Susteck, 43, Astoria, L. I., charged with involuntary manslaughter.

It was the only case considered by the jury.

Susteck was driving the car in which Joseph Fody, 46, Bloomfield, N. J., was killed in an accident near Kresgeville March 9, according to Brodheadsville State police. The two men were brothers-in-law.

Eliminate Errors In Home Design

"If I were building my home all over again I would do things much differently."

Many a home builder, after the home is built expresses that sentiment and wishes he could build another in order to take advantage of the things he learned on the first.

Experience is a good teacher, but there are other less costly ways of accomplishing the same result. Money, time, and worry may be saved by learning as much as possible before a start is made on a new house.

These Facts Help

Officials of the Federal Housing Administration have pointed out facts which prospective home builders should know and remember. Among these are the following:

1-A square is the most economical form in which a given amount of space may be enclosed.

2-The rectangular shape simplifies the structural framing system of both floor and roof and thus effects economies. Additional corners increase the unit cost of the house.

3-Dormer windows are sometimes desirable, but a roof without dormer windows costs less than one with dormers.

4-An inside chimney costs less to build than one on the exterior.

5-Bay windows add to the livable qualities of a home but also increase construction cost.

6-When a full basement adds to the cost of the house, it may be possible to build an extra room above ground for the same amount.

Stock Items Economical

7-Stock millwork instead of special designs for doors and windows, finish trim for wall openings, bases, cornices, and other items is a real economy.

8-Room sizes which permit the use of standard lengths of lumber without cutting produce a house which may be built with less waste and less labor.

9-Economy in plumbing installation is possible by locating plumbing fixtures so as to avoid an excessive amount of piping.

10-A short driveway costs less than a long one. Careless garage location may double driveway costs.

Furniture In Natural Color

When it is desired to change painted furniture to natural color, all of the old paint should be thoroughly removed with paint and varnish remover. When all of the old paint has been stripped off, wash the surface thoroughly with turpentine. Then smooth the surface with fine sandpaper, wipe off all dust and apply an oil stain of the desired color, in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions on the container. Finally, apply two coats of clear, transparent varnish, being sure to let the first coat dry before the second coat is applied.

Galvanized Steel Cans For Garbage

Health and fire prevention authorities advise new home owners to make one of their first purchases a galvanized steel garbage can. These containers are recommended because their close-fitting covers keep rats and fire away from refuse. In addition to being both rat and fireproof they are zinc coated to prevent rust and corrosion.

Tape Seals Seams

Seams on linoleum floors can be successfully sealed and smoothed over by running a strip of cellophane tape down the full length of the crack. By shellacking over the tape, the surface will hold up for an indefinite period. This not only prevents dirt seeping through but prevents tripping as well.

Best For Slip Covers

Home economists emphasize the importance of selecting closely-woven fabrics for slip covers because they give greater protection against dust, hold their shape better, wear longer and tailor more easily than do loosely woven materials.

THE BENNETT is planned to have wide overhanging eaves, a picture window and stone or brick facing on the living room walls. These features add interest to the front elevation. The balance of The Bennett has wide siding. Concrete or cinder blocks can be substituted for the exterior walls. The roof is covered with asphalt shingles. Addition of a garage to the side of this small house gives it a spacious appearance from the front. The generous amount of closet space, small hall leading to all rooms and simplified plumbing installation with kitchen and bathroom adjoining, make the floor plan arrangement of The Bennett exceptional. There is a total of nine closets. A coat closet for each entrance; broom and pot and pan closets in kitchen; a linen closet in the bedroom; two closets in the bedrooms. High side windows in the bedroom offer additional wall space for furniture. The main body of The Bennett is 38 feet, by 24 feet. It has an area of 817 square feet, without the garage. There is a volume of 17,423 cubic feet, including the full basement. For further information about The Bennett, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

Cedar Closet Is Necessity

High up on the list of unwelcome summer visitors is the moth. No matter how well screened or how careful people are about not leaving unprotected doors open, these pests seem to be able to come in, make themselves at home, and sit down to a nice meal of blue serge, fur coat or wool blanket.

A fine protection against these possible ravages of moths is a properly constructed cedar closet, where winter blankets, furs and clothing may be stored.

The entire surface of the closet, including the inside of the door, should be covered with three-eighths-inch aromatic cedar lining. It is preferable to line the floor with thirteen-sixteenths-inch, but three-eighths-inch can be used. The door should be tight fitting and close against felt gaskets. The lining may be placed directly over plaster if care is exercised to nail it to the studs. Face nailing is suggested, but blind nailing may be used if desired.

The corners should be fitted with quarter-round cedar moulding. Cedar shelving may also be used with added effect. The more aromatic wood employed the better the check against moths. A further precaution is to thoroughly clean any article before storing.

Coat Closet Handy

A coat closet in the main entrance hall of a home will contribute much in convenience to the entire family. The size of the closet will necessarily depend on the individual requirements and the space available. The floor should be of material that is easily cleaned, as the closet will also be a storeroom for overshoes and dripping umbrellas.

Soundproofing

The prospective home owners may achieve effective soundproofing between two bedrooms or between bedroom and bathroom by locating closets in the connecting walls. The double walls form good barriers to sound.

Roof Designs Can Add Real Touch Of Beauty To House

Time was when a roof was recognized as a necessary part of a home, but one that had little to do with the beauty of the building. Almost any material that was readily available, serviceable, and not too costly was used.

Today there is a roof for every style and kind of modern architecture, and it is these roofs that round out the dignity of the house and give it the beautiful lines and grace that the skilled plans call for.

Choice of materials is wide, but should be made with an eye to the type of house on which it is to be laid. Some of the most popular roofing materials are: Composition, both rolls and cut; wood shingles of various thicknesses and color; slate and asbestos shingles of high durability and unlimited color ranges; and tile, handmade or machine made. Tin is not usually employed for house roofing today except where it is imperative to effect a savings.

If a modernization project contemplated calls for a new roof, it is wise to consult an architect or builder and get his ideas on the type and the material best designed for your home.

Arguments For, Against Basements

Logical arguments can be presented for and against the matter of a basement in a new house. Climatic conditions, the size of the house, and the type of heating system to be used are deciding factors in the matter.

Frequently space needed for heating equipment, fuel, laundry, storage and other purposes can be more economically obtained above than below ground and to advantage in convenient usage. Better light and air are available, and upstairs utility rooms also save steps.

On the other hand, basements offer ideal storage space for solid fuels such as coal, coke, or wood, because the fuel can be cheaply delivered by gravity into suitable storage bins. They also offer ideal conditions for storing certain foods where space separated from the heating plant is provided and when proper use is made of the earth temperatures.

Earth temperatures at the level of the ordinary basement in the United States seldom go below the freezing point and seldom rise to more than a few degrees below the average seasonal temperature. This factor can be utilized to good advantage for the storage of foods such as apples, potatoes, beets, winter squash, etc., and for the storage of canned foods and preserves.

Mirrors Add Color

Large Closets Waste Space

As the closet is a purely utilitarian part of the house, it should be compact and efficient rather than large and space consuming.

In turning over a large area over to a closet, the home planner automatically shuts off a floor area that would otherwise be given to living or bedroom space. The closet door remains closed most of the time so that a closet too large is actually space wasting.

Closets should be measured to suit the demands of the home owner and sufficient storage needs should dictate the sizes of the areas to be closeted.

Heat Loss

Heating engineers find that more than 44 per cent of all heat in a home escapes through walls and ceilings that are not insulated.

SPCA Provides Real Service To County But Frequently Finds Itself Low On Ready Cash

By Leonard Randolph

One of the agencies which offer constant service to residents of Monroe County and the Stroudsburgs is the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Located in their new kennel headquarters (without kennels) on Foxtown Hill, the society is now prepared to handle more animals than at any time in its recent history.

It is also in a bad way financially.

Since moving into the new property January 7, the society's custodians, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie F. Young, have done their best to provide adequate space for housing the many stray dogs and unwanted animals which come under their care.

In this case, however, the best has been barely good enough.

Working with their hands and the few tools at their disposal, the Youngs first of all managed to clear off weeds and rubble from the property, clearing the way for sheds and kennels, which they did not have, but which they hoped to see built eventually.

Once the space was cleared, the society appealed to the Record for assistance in finding a few "coops" as temporary housing for the animals, already needing shelter.

In response to a Daily Record story, residents of Monroe County contributed a variety of coops and shelters which had been lying, unused, in their backyards and around their farms. The Youngs put them to immediate use.

The coops were erected in back of the house and provided adequate temporary housing for nine or ten dogs collected by the society. Mr. Young filled the coops with cedar shavings "to help scare away fleas."

During April, 15 strays were picked up by the society. Almost all of them had to be "put to sleep" since there was no proper place to keep them and no foster home in which to put them. In cases such as these 15 the society pays the cost of elimination.

Like almost all dog lovers and persons who are instinctively fond of animals, however, the Youngs do not relish the idea of "doing away" with one of their strays. They, and the society resort to it only as a last alternative.

With barely enough facilities to care for ten dogs, however, it is impossible for them to care for large numbers at the present time.

In locating foster homes for strayed and unwanted young animals, the society uses the columns of The Daily Record. In advertisements published in this newspaper nearly every day, residents who are "in the market" for a good dog, may find precisely what they're looking for. The society provides a fairly complete description of the dog, its pedigree (if any), its coloring and, in some cases, even its appetite. Interested parties are asked to contact either the downtown office or the Youngs in connection with advertised dogs.

It is in the location of dogs in foster homes that the association gives its greatest community service. Through relocation of the animals it (1) prevents dogs from running unattended on streets and through the surrounding countryside; (2) assists persons who want good dogs in finding and keeping them and (3) gives the animals good care while they are "homeless".

Both Mr. and Mrs. Young are in agreement on one thing. Residents of Monroe County (like almost every other community in the U. S. in which an SPCA office is located) are not quite certain what function the office serves in the community.

There is, for example, the constant line of calls from dog owners who have had the same dog for the past eight or nine years who are "through with the dog because he's old" or "we like him all right, but we'd like to get a younger dog now".

In cases such as this the Youngs invariably advise the owner to have the dog put to sleep personally. The reason for this is obvious: almost nobody wants an old dog which someone else has "gotten rid of". Although the discrimination may be unjustified and unfair, for the most part, it remains true of the prospective dog owner.

One woman called the Youngs recently to ask them to "come and take my cat to the vet—he's sick". The Youngs explained that this was not one of the fundamental purposes of the organization.

Right now, the SPCA is attempting to secure funds for the erection of a kennel 20 ft. by 40 ft. to house a maximum of 30 animals. The kennel would be built with concrete runs on both sides in a manner which would make daily cleaning and sanitary measures possible.

Unless additional financial aid is forthcoming, however, it seems unlikely the kennels will be built soon.

In the meantime, there is the matter of current expenses to keep the society on the brink of the red side of the ledger.

Each animal kept by the society on the Foxtown Hill property costs nearly $30 per month. In addition to this, the mileage on the car which the society uses for investigation of cases and a monthly milk bill for puppies adds up to a considerable extra tab.

Donations to the SPCA generally come from persons who are "adopting" a dog. These gifts amount to from $1 to $5, although some philanthropic individuals may go as high as $10.

The gratification gained from the relocation of an animal, however, alleviates the disappointment society officials may feel when the contributions fail to come in.

At the present time, the Youngs are keeping six dogs on the property. These are: A mixed Spitz and collie, male; a German shepherd-collie, female; a male dalmatian; a female terrier; a female cocker spaniel and one breed unknown.

There are also two black cats, both male and brothers and a grey-and-white kitten named "Mittens." "Mittens" is the Youngs' pride and joy at present—she has seven toes on each of her front paws.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Young are hoping they may be able to find homes for the animals soon. (Although it works in far more cramped quarters than do many SPCA offices throughout the nation, the local branch keeps dogs from two to four weeks—five to ten times longer than average time.)

Neither the custodians nor the office help associated with county SPCA receive pay. The Youngs live

Work Under Way At PP&L Plant

Preliminary work is already under way at the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co.'s new Martins Creek power plant on the Delaware River, it was reported yesterday.

An informal meeting was planned between company officials and residents of Lower Mount Bethel Township from 8 to 9:30 p. m. Thursday at the consolidated school at Martins Creek.

Officials will explain the purpose of the new plant and the methods of construction to be used. Completion is expected in 1954 for the first unit of the plant.

When the annual membership drive begins during July and August, all those persons associated with the office are hoping that residents who have been assisted in the past will remember its efforts on their part and the part of the community as a whole.

In the meantime, it would seem proper to pause for a moment and reflect upon the many humane services offered by the agency the year around.

In the writings of Christianity it is made plain that the eyes of the Almighty are "on the sparrow."

The story of Monroe County's Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, then, must be the story, also, of a truly Christian doctrine—that the measure of a man is in his attitude toward lowly creatures and in the humanity which he displays in his daily life.

Another hard day of training is over... but the busy hours are just beginning for this Telephone Center at Indiantown Gap.

"CORPORAL JONES IN BOOTH 12, PLEASE"

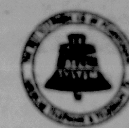

It's hard to see the loud-speaker in this picture. But you can be mighty sure it's heard! Every few seconds, the operator at this Indiantown Gap Telephone Center calls out the name of another soldier who's waiting to hear a wonderful "Hello!" from Mother or Dad... or from wife or sweet-heart... maybe from you.

Handling the thousands and thousands of Long Distance calls from training camps is one of our most important jobs. One of the most heart-warming, too! That's why we've gone all-out to provide plenty of telephone service at military installations. That's why we've strived so hard to make the men comfortable in Telephone Centers while their calls are being put through. Magazines and newspapers are there for the asking, and the smokes are on the house.

Any way you measure it, telephone service in military and naval establishments has increased tremendously during the past two years. Yet this is only part of the story. Defense industries have called for many thousands of new telephone lines, and there has been no let-up whatever in requests for other types of service. So we're stepping up our expansion program again. This year will be one of the biggest and costliest expansion years in our history.

It makes each drop of gas say uncle

ACCORDING to combustion experts, there's as much energy locked in a drop of gasoline as there is in a drop of nitroglycerine.

But the problem is to put that energy to work.

So Buick engineers aren't content just to mix that drop with air and touch it off. They've designed an engine that brings it catapulting into a cylinder head where it strikes a turbo-top piston—gets whipped into a churning, swirling ball of tight-packed energy.

Then it's fired. And when that happens, a drop of gasoline certainly lets loose power.

This isn't something that happens in a "car of the future."

It happens in a Buick Fireball 8 Engine today. It's a high-compression engine. It's a valve-in-head engine. But it's also a Fireball in performance as well as name.

And it puts extra power under the hood—and extra miles in the fuel back in the gas tank.

Now, power is great, but what goes with it?

Mister, that's something you ought to find out—and soon.

What goes with it is an automobile as sweet-handling, eager and willing as anything that ever made your pulse leap to a faster beat.

It's a car that seems to know what you want it to do—true and sure in its course on a straightaway—beautifully balanced on curves.

It's a car with Dynaflo Drive* to feed power with infinite smoothness—and a road-hugging levelness of ride that took a million in cold cash to perfect.

And it is, with all this, a very tidy bargain. Why not price it, drive it, know it for yourself? We'll be glad to arrange a demonstration.

Tru-Matic Fast Becoming Major Industrial Plant

The sixteenth of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. All of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is produced here; how it is made, the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By James Gaffney

A new industrial baby to the Stroudsburgs is growing rapidly and shows promise of developing into full-bloom maturity by the assistance of other cooperative local industries.

Tru-Matic Machine and Tool Co., Inc., entered the local industrial world as the result of encouragement by the industrial committee of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce and leading citizens of Monroe County. And in 1949 on the outskirts of East Stroudsburg, along Route 190, it made its appearance on a property five and a half acres acquired through the efforts of the chamber's group.

A bond was floated for $75,000 and extended for a 15-year period, marking the beginning of Tru-Matic and the commencement of another business in the Stroudsburgs that is carrying this name throughout the nation and world.

Tru-Matic had its real beginning Jan. 1, 1946 in Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and was incorporated in 1947. But when a zoning problem arose in the West Chester County community the officials of Tru-Matic reluctantly sought another location. Since then, with innumerable changes having occurred, company officials expressed themselves as being exceptionally grateful for the move, announcing the reception here as being most cordial and the cooperation exceptional.

When the Schiebel brothers, Arthur and William, came here with Robert R. Hellmann they started operations with 11 local workers. Today the concern has grown to great proportions in the short period and employs 60 persons while contributing last year about $175,000 in payrolls and salaries to the Stroudsburgs.

Evidence of the company's potentialities is their expansion of 5,000 square feet just recently and the manner in which that additional space was utilized. Further expanding could occur almost momentarily by moving a tentative wall northward to embrace more ground.

All three officers are lavish in their praise of the men who work at the plant. According to William, who is secretary-treasurer and superintendent of plant operations, the men in this area have shown an unusual adeptness mechanically. "Despite the lack of skilled labor in this section the caliber of men who came to work for us were quick to improvise and showed good inclinations to mechanically operating parts," he said. "Today we have trained many men at the highly skilled professions but they have shown us they possess a general good mechanical background."

HERBERT CRAMER operated a hydraulically controlled open-side planer at Tru-matic Machine and Tool Co., Inc. north of East Stroudsburg, a Pocono Mountain Chamber of Commerce sponsored plant that employs 60 persons.

Arthur Schiebel, president of Tru-Matic also voiced approval of the workmen and emphasized the cooperation given the plant by other industries in the area.

About 40 per cent of production today is for the war effort. The U. S. Navy takes most of the metal parts produced and they are used in aircraft and for radar equipment. An additional 40 per cent goes into sub-contracting work for nationally known concerns and the remaining 20 per cent is devoted to the manufacturer of famous Tru-Matic toys.

Steel, the basic material used in the firm's production, "is our life's blood" Arthur said. Other metals also are utilized and a welding shop in charge of Ellis Bartholomew trains and trucks bringing materials to the plant.

One of the major operations at the plant is finished by Ray Blitz, who operates a riveting machine. Blitz, totally blind, has shown an unusual adeptness at performing several other functions, including assembling and operating a press.

Punch presses of various sizes comprise much of the expensive equipment in use and recently an open side planer was purchased and is operated hydraulically.

William Scheibel terms the toys he manufactures "glorified kiddy cars." Listed for sale at many retail stores throughout the nation are tractor hand cars, bulldozers, road rollers, tug boats and sand diggers. Latest innovation to the market is a machine gun which shoots small wooden pellets. Production on this line has just started.

Tru-Matic has built an enviable reputation for efficiency and dependability with concerns prominent in radar, electronics, aviation and civilian fields. Among the partial list of famous names served by Tru-Matic are General Electric, Philco Corp., RCA, Grumman Aircraft, Chase Aircraft, Bendix radio, Worthington Mower, Western Electric, Patterson-Kelley, Ronson Art Metal and scores of other well known firms.

Among the items manufactured are air conditioning and water cooler parts, cable holders, test equipment boxes, service tools for airplanes, experimental and radar panels and chassis, farm machinery and equipment, pocketbook frames, mufflers, brackets and supports, tank parts and many other types of metal articles used in all phases of industry.

The plant is equipped to handle precision work on all types of ferrous and non-ferrous metals, including aluminum, stainless steel, alloyed steel and magnesium. Their presses have a capacity from 250 tons and machine division is equipped with milling machines, turret lathes, surface grinders, engine lathes, drill presses, sanders, etc.

In addition to the three officials here at the plant, others who form the board of directors are Richard Hellmann, former president of Hellmann's Mayonnaise an now head of Richell, Inc.; Ramon Sieminski, president and Charles Solski, superintendent of Brunswick Laundry; Dr. Edward Zlonczewski, director of dental hygiene, Jersey City, N. J. and Herbert Aronson, Mt. Vernon attorney.

Key personnel at the local plant include Fred L. Metzgar Jr., general foreman; Frank A. Bender, model shop and short run sheet metal fabrications; George Manos, foreman of quality control and inspection department and Paul R. Daily and Douglas Townsend, foremen of machine shop.

Also, Helmut Hahn, die shop foreman; John Metzgar and Greenwood Bogart, press department foremen; Arthur Mosteller, spot welding foreman; John E. Drake, finishing; William H. Thain, assembly and Richard W. Staples, shipping.

Daylight Found Me Completely Worn Out

Mr. Page Garland, Fire Captain of Hampton, New Hampshire writes—My duties as Fire Captain are performed at all hours of the day and night, and are a terrific tax on my system. I had no appetite, started to lose weight and sleep was next to impossible. My nerves were just plain ragged.

I was told that I had a vitamin and mineral deficiency. I tried many things without success until a druggist friend suggested VAYLO. I had read about it in Reader's Digest, so started VAYLO and within a short time I felt like my old self. Even the boys at the Fire House noticed the improvement in my condition.

VAYLO has worked wonders for men and I would not be without it for the world. I want to tell everyone about it.

It certainly is the one formula that lives up to all its claims. Get the Genuine VAYLO at KRESGE DRUG STORE 17 Crystal St. Phone 674

A Ticket Is A Favor

You knew a ticket was coming when the siren sounded behind you and the flashing red light blinked in your mirror—and you knew why.

But did you even stop to think the officer was doing you a favor? Well, he was! Traffic patrol officers know their business. They are the ones who help clean up the gory messes on the highways, but their big job is to prevent accidents from happening.

There's no personal animosity in a ticket—and it may be saving your life and the lives of others in a positive way. Remember, driving is a responsibility as well as a privilege.

When you see a speeder getting a summons, be glad the law is dealing with another traffic violator—making your trip on the road safer. And if you ever drive out-of-turn—exceed the speed limit, go through a red light, cross a traffic line at a "no-passing" point, or violate some other rule of the road—recognize the fact that you are a candidate for a ticket.

And when the officer hands it to you—even if you don't say it out loud—think: "Thank You."

Pastor From Poland Here On Visit

Delaware Water Gap—Another Spring is welcomed by every man, but it is doubly sweet to a man who had stood in a Russian prison yard expecting to be shot at any moment. Such a man is Pastor Jacob Gerhardt, formerly of Orlau, Poland, now a spring-time guest of relatives in Delaware Water Gap.

He was pastor of a Lutheran church in Orlau when Poland was over-run by the Russians. He was promptly imprisoned and during his six months in the prison camp, ministered to the prisoners. He was finally asked what he would like to have for his last meal, and ordered to stand with others in the prison courtyard. It was while they were lined up, awaiting the firing squad, that the prison officials announced that they were to be allowed to go free. Many of them collapsed at the news.

With his wife and three grown sons, Pastor Gerhardt went to Westphalia, in Germany where they all lived in one room in a German Lutheran home.

It was through the efforts of a Methodist minister in New York that they finally came to America. Eventually he expects to preach to a Polish congregation, but at present is serving as assistant pastor at the New York church.

He is visiting his sister, Mrs. Hoffman and his niece, Mrs. Redig in Delaware Water Gap, and will speak on WYPO on Thursday morning, attempting to tell local people something of what the food packages have meant to the displaced persons of Europe.

In his conversation with residents of the village, he has spoken of those prison months as among the most precious of his memories, when living under the hourly imminence of death, he found "how close God can come."

Just Between Us

With the leaves big enough to make a rustle, it was a temptation yesterday to stand still every time the wind blew just to listen to them.

There was quite a rustling, too, at the Junior Woman's Club last night with installation of officers, and Mrs. Harry Shinnen as their guest. It was her first official act as county president, and one which she did with neatness and dispatch—and wearing a very tricky hat with a purple flower held on the back as if by magic.

Neatness and dispatch might be the Junior Women's motto because they certainly get off to a running start—what with their major project and major activity already selected for next year.

Couldn't help thinking, though, that imposing as the reports of the committee chairmen were on the work accomplished during the past year, the biggest individual accomplishments didn't show up at all.

It's only when you study the list of members and realize how many of them changed their names in the course of the year, and think about all the new babies—prospective Juniors and prospective husbands for prospective Juniors—that you appreciate how really capable the members are.

All that, and club work, too. Well, more power to them.

UJA Dinner To Feature Dance Team

It was announced yesterday by the officers of the Monroe County Federation of Jewish Charities that an evening of entertainment has been planned for the annual campaign dinner, to be held Thursday, May 8 at 7 p.m.

Herb and Betty Warner, musical comedy stylists, will present their "Romantic Interludes." This duo are featured Broadway and TV stars, having played on such shows as the Lucky Strike Hit Parade, Stop the Music and with Ed Sullivan and Milton Berle.

In addition, Mrs. Barbara Lawrence, an outstanding lecturer and philanthropic leader, will be guest speaker. Mrs. Lawrence has made an extended tour abroad on behalf of the United Jewish Appeal and since her return has lectured in practically every city and town in the United States.

The UJA is the major beneficiary of the Monroe County Federation of Jewish Charities and the funds collected by it have been a major factor in securing progress made by the new State of Israel since its establishment.

Mrs. Richard Fredenberg New President Of Jr. Women

Mrs. Richard Fredenberg was last night elected and installed as president of the Junior Woman's Club for the coming club year at a meeting held at the Stroud Community House. Mrs. Harry Shinnen, of Barrett, officiated at the installation as her first official act since being elected president of the Monroe County Federation of Woman's Clubs at their May 1 meeting.

Other officers installed included Mrs. John Sibley, first vice president; Mrs. Warren Mikele, second vice president; Mrs. Alexander Bensinger, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Chester Miller, recording secretary, and Mrs. Richard MacDonald, treasurer.

As the closing act of her administration, Mrs. James Cummings, retiring president, presided at the business meeting when the club adopted the Salvation Army as their major project for the coming year, and a fashion show as their major activity.

Reports of all the chairmen of committees were presented, providing a review of the successful year's work. Still remaining on the club calendar is the final Saturday morning moving picture for children of the community which will feature "Huckleberry Finn" this Saturday morning at the Sherman Theater at 10:30.

Climaxing the club year will be the annual banquet to be held Friday, May 16, at 7:30 at the Club Fernwood.

The business meeting was preceded by a program on interior decorating with Leo Karshner speaking on the place of paint in the home, and Mrs. Shaller on interior harmony. They were both presented by Tony Auer.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses of which Mrs. Ruth Zettelmeyer was hostess and which included Mrs. Harry Crouse Jr., Miss Ardeh Groner, Mrs. Charles Auger, Mrs. Lester Boushell, Mrs. Russell Imb Jr., Miss Dorothea Marsh, Mrs. James Morgan, Mrs. Anthony Quaresimo and Mrs. Joseph Yutz.

Robert Bensel Is Married In Harrisburg

Miss Carolyn R. Caldwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Caldwell, of 1409 Second St., Harrisburg, was married to Robert J. Bensel, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bensel, formerly of East Stroudsburg.

They were married at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Harrisburg on Saturday, May 3, with Rev. John Metz officiating at the double ring ceremony. Music was presented by Bernard Wertz, organist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white imported Chantilly lace over satin. Her cloche-type hat was attached to a fingertip veil and she carried a bouquet of white sweet peas and stock with a center corsage of gardenias.

Miss Mildred Crone, maid-of-honor, wore a green net gown over taffeta, and carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

Paul Weary Jr., of Stroudsburg, was best man, and the ushers were Dudley W. Grove, brother-in-law of the bride, and Douglas Landis.

A reception was held at Rose Tree Inn, LeMayne, Pa.

The bride is a graduate of William Penn High School and was employed by the Pennsylvania Threshman and Farmer's Mutual Casualty Insurance Co. The bridegroom is a graduate of Stroudsburg High School, Temple University School of Pharmacy, and is a pharmacist and assistant manager of People's Drug Store in Hyattsville, Md.

On their return from a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Toronto, Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Bensel will live in West Hyattsville, Md.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. Howard Jones and Miss Patricia Benschel, of East Stroudsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Weary Sr., of Stroudsburg.

Nurses Work Described For WSCS

The nursing service available to all residents of Monroe County was explained in a talk given by Mrs. C. Edward DePuy, executive director of the Monroe County Organization Public Health Nursing, at the meeting of the Women's Society of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church on Monday night.

Mrs. DePue explained the major purpose of the organization as the care of the sick in their own home. The public health nurses, however, can also often prevent disease by encouraging the practice of good health habits, can promote health in the individual, family and community level, she added.

Registered nurses will give bedside care on a visit basis to anyone in the county, she said.

Mrs. DePue was introduced by Mrs. Marilyn Rutt, program chairman, following a devotional period led by young people of the church. A young people's chorus sang the opening prayer and Miss Joyce Fry read a story, "Color Blind."

Following the program, a business meeting was held when Miss Catherine Wolverton was reelected president of the group. Other officers elected included Mrs. Merlin Rutt, vice president; Mrs. William Shearer, promotion secretary; Mrs. Roland Dunkelberger, recording secretary; Mrs. Horace Stiff, financial secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Staples, treasurer;

Mrs. Nelson Frantz, secretary of missionary education; Mrs. Nelson Westbrook, student work; Mrs. Samuel Lee, literature and publications; Miss Ruth Pipher, spiritual life; Miss Grace Dreher, status of women; Mrs. Paul Shiffer, youth work; Mrs. Walter Johnston, youth work; Mrs. Robert Wilson, children's work; Mrs. Willard Davis, counselor of Westminster Guild; Mrs. Will Kraemer, financial; Mrs. John Baldwin, membership; Mrs. George Sebring Sr., Fellowship; Mrs. James Mader, printing and publicity; Mrs. Paul Fetherman, decorations and preparation.

Mrs. Nelson Frantz announced that a film "Sings to the Word" would be shown at the June meeting.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by the hostesses of which Mrs. Garner Sluiter was chairman.

Lydia Circle Meeting

The Lydia Circle of the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Women's Auxiliary will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ashton Burrows. Mrs. Burrows will review the book "He Wears Orchids."

PTA Council Election On Thursday Nt.

The annual meeting of the Monroe Co. P.T.A. Council will be held Thursday, May 8, at 8 p.m., Clearview School. Election of officers will be held, a slate having been prepared by the following nominating committee: Robert Hellman, Mrs. Merle Stevenson, and Mrs. Elmer Veety.

Plans will be made for the participation of local P.T.A.'s in the state P.T.A. Convention to be held at Pocono Manor, Oct. 20-22.

A new film strip distributed by the Bureau of Mental Health Dept. of Welfare, Harrisburg, will be shown. It deals with "What Mental Health Can Mean in your Community."

Council meetings are open to all registered P.T.A. members. All newly elected or nominated officers are especially urged to come to this meeting.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

I suppose they're in New Orleans now... meaning our Wyckoff Travel Bureau excursionists to Guatemala. In the party are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Wyckoff, Edna Harmon, Edna Brockman, Beatrice Gorgy, Amy Ellenberger and Harold Fehr, all of the store family; Mrs. D. D. Streeter of Brooklyn; Miss Ida Shafer of Mountaintown, and Mrs. Lillian Savidge of Stroudsburg. Ruth Barnhard is working with Ann Weiss in the accessories department during her sister's absence, and while Amy is gone Mae Ward will be assisted in notions by Ruth Bush... Funniest thing I've seen today was Kitty Miller trying to raise and lower her new folding umbrella. As Edna Saylor, our switchboard operator, kept telling her, "It's simple, once you know how." Nevertheless, we're glad Kitty decided to master it before she was caught in a storm. Those umbrellas are beautiful though, and a perfect size for tucking into a suitcase or cosmetic kit. They sell in our umbrella department in every conceivable color from $5 to $10.95... Harry Congdon Jr., of the men's department, tells me that a very special value is now being offered there. Those handsome men's rayon slacks which ordinarily sell at $6.95 are being offered for clearance at the unbelievable price of two pairs for $10. They're made of Dupont Neoprene, and just right for summer, spring or fall, in a variety of colors and 30 to 42 size range... The coming national convention have at last made themselves felt in Stroudsburg. I noticed two customers in the store yesterday wearing "I Like Ike" pins. One was glancing over a magazine article entitled "What Makes a President" being featured in this month's Ladies' Home Journal... Yesterday's news story in the Record brought down congratulations galore upon Jack L. Kerlin, our new general manager. Mr. Kerlin is the brother-in-law of Henry Kresge, our Sears store manager, or did you know?...

Queries are now being phoned into the boys' department about white First Communion suits, I'm told. These must be special ordered, but Wyckoff's is prepared to oblige its customers... New dresses are arriving daily in our fashion department, the latest for my money being a printed navy and white sheer with full elbow-length sleeves, a white Peter Pan collar, and a softly draped skirt; also a silk shantung in "tweed" on tailored lines with a scarf at the neckline. Clothes! Wonder how much dressing up I dare do before my conscience gives me a "dressing down?"

600 Acres Burned Over In Series Of Nine Grass-Forest Fires

Wooddale Area Is Scene Of Biggest Blaze

An estimated 600 acres were blackened under the flames of nine separate grass or forest fires in Monroe and Pike Counties yesterday, the district forester's office reported in Stroudsburg.

Late last night, five of the fires still were going, though none was moving very fast.

Two fires were located in an area along Coolbaugh road, north of Marshalls Creek. One started at 12:10 p.m. The other was reported at 2:40 p.m. about two miles north of the first blaze, near Lake Monroe. Three wardens directed volunteers in the fight against the fire. An estimated 250 acres was burned off by the two fires yesterday.

Another 300 acres was burned off by three blazes north of Circle H Ranch, between Wooddale and Brodheads Creek road. The Northern Stroud Fire Co. aided inspectors and rangers in fighting the flames.

Another large fire occurred near Pocono Lake, just west of Henning's store, close to Pocono Lake Preserve. The Pocono Lake Fire Co., forest wardens and volunteers from Pocono Manor turned out after the blaze was reported at 3:30 p.m. The fire was brought under control before it could damage any of the houses and cottages in the area. Some 50 acres of pines and other trees were burned off.

The other three fires were comparatively small. Two acres were destroyed three miles north of Camp Tamiment, near Bushkill, by a blaze which was reported at 2:40 p.m.

A fire which started about 1:50 p.m. traveled across six acres near Egypt, Pike County, before it was extinguished by the Paupack Fire Co.

Another two acres in Monroe County were burned off in a grass fire east of Clermont Ave. in South Stroudsburg. The Stroudsburg Fire Department responded.

Cancer Talk Given Before Lions Club

Stroudsburg Lions at their dinner meeting in the Penn-Stroud hotel last night were reminded of the necessity for early diagnosis in cases of cancer, and saw a motion picture film illustrative of that point.

Dr. Claus Jordan, surgeon, spoke on cancer problems. He told of cases of cancer he had observed only yesterday at the General Hospital and in his office practice and touched on the great variety of forms that the scourge assumes. He said that one of five average people develops "cancer" at one time or another and that early diagnosis is an absolute must in effecting a cure.

He explained, also, the great need of education of the public mind in detecting cancer. He pointed out that some persons have suggested that strenuous efforts to educate people in the great cancer danger may create cancerphobia. Nevertheless, it is necessary, he said, and as far as cancerphobia is concerned, it can be readily cured, but lack of early diagnosis may be fatal.

The program was presented by the Monroe County Chapter of the American Cancer Society and Principal Alfred Munson of the Stroudsburg High School, representing the chapter, had charge of the program.

Report was received of the progress of work in organizing a Lions Club in Milford and of the assistance given by Cass Hassinger in this enterprise.

Browns Use Power To Sink A's

Philadelphia (AP)—A two-run homer by catcher Clint Courtney in the second inning and a round tripper by shortstop Marty Marion with no one on in the fifth last night gave the St. Louis Browns a 5-1 win over the Philadelphia Athletics. It marked the end of the A's four-game victory streak.

The power hitting of Courtney and Marion gained right hander Duane Pillette his third pitching decision of the year against one defeat.

Eight Safeties
Pillette scattered eight hits with veteran shortstop Eddie Joost getting four of the blows.

It was Joost's first hit of the night which led to Philadelphia's only run as the bespectacled infielder singled, raced to third on Dave Philley's double with one out, then Philley's intentional walk to Gus Zenzfeld, came home on Ferris Fain's outfield fly.

The lead was short-lived as Courtney bombed a Bob Hooper pitch over the right field wall for his first home run of the season. Marion clocked a Leo Thompson home run in the fifth. St. Louis .020 010 200-5 9 0 Philadelphia .100 000 000-1 8 0

Red Sox Star Hurt
Boston (AP)—Eddie Kinsler, the Boston Red Sox veteran right-handed pitcher, yesterday was sidelined for an indefinite period with a sacral injury.

Indians Stop Yankees, 1-0

New York, (AP)—Steve Gromek, unheralded member of Cleveland's vaunted pitching staff, hurled the Indians to a 1-0 victory over the New York Yankees last night in a brilliant pitching duel with Allie Reynolds.

The 32-year-old right-hander scattered four Yankee singles to protect a second inning run scored by singles by Dale Mitchell, Ray Boone and "Birdie" Tebbetts. Cleveland .010 000 000-1 5 1 New York .000 000 000-0 4 0

Roberts Hurls Phillies To Nod Over Pirates With Two-Hitter

Pittsburgh, (AP)—Robin Roberts hurled a brilliant two-hitter last night as the Philadelphia Phillies snapped a four-game losing streak in beating the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0. Roberts gave up a harmless infield single to Jack Merson in the second inning and another single to Bobby Del Greco in the eighth. Outfielder Del Ennis smashed two home runs to account for three of the Phil's runs.

Roberts was in command throughout as he breezed to his fourth win against a single defeat. His mates supported him solidly with a 13-hit attack.

Defeat
The defeat was charged to Don Carlsen who hooked up in a pitching duel with Roberts until he blew up in the fifth as the Phillies pushed four runs across the plate.

Carlsen threw out Roberts to open the inning, then walked to second as Granny Hamner singled off Carlsen's glove. After "Smoky" Burgess fled out, Ennis walloped a homer over the left field wall. Willie Jones then doubled and came home as Connie Ryan singled. Carlsen finally got out of the inning by throwing out Mel Clark but he was relieved in the sixth after giving up a double to Eddie Waitkus.

The Phils picked up another run in the seventh on Ennis' second homer. In the eighth they tallied again on singles by Waitkus and Ashburn. Phila. .000 040 110-6 13 0 Pittsburgh .000 000 000-0 2 0

Chicago Blanks Braves, 2-0

Chicago (AP)—Johnny Kippstein tamed the Boston Braves with a blazing three-hitter as the Chicago Cubs jolted Vern Bickford for a three-hit, two-run fifth inning and a 2-0 victory yesterday.

Kippstein, striking out seven Braves and four of the last five to face him, had only one real scare as he notched his second victory in as many starts.

Triple Wasted
That was in the third when Sibby Sisti opened the inning with a triple. But Johnny got the next three batters without the ball leaving the infield, Sisti dying on third.

Kippstein now has yielded only four earned runs in 28 innings. It was the third defeat against no victories for Bickford who was relieved by Sheldon Jones after the seventh.

The well pitched game required only one hour and thirty eight minutes of play.

College Boys Clash In Chicago Ring
Chicago (AP)—Undefeated "Chuck" Davey will attempt to upset sensational "Chico" Vejar, defeated only once in 42 bouts, in their welterweight contender showdown fight tonight.

The Chicago Stadium ten rounder, to be televised and broadcast nationally at 10 p. m., (EDT), will be witnessed by 8,000 to 9,000 ring-siders with receipts at $40,000. A group from Stamford, Conn., Vejar's hometown, will be among the ring-siders.

Two Degrees
"Davey," holder of two degrees in education from Michigan State College, is a 6-5 favorite, probably because of his tremendous popularity in Chicago and his technical knockout defeat of fading Ike Williams, former lightweight champion, in five rounds here six weeks ago. Davey, a southpaw, is a self taught craftsman. In his 32 bouts Davey has scored 22 knockouts.

Russell Leads Kefauver In Key Primary Test In Florida

Taft Returns To Front In Delegate Race

By The Associated Press
Sen. Robert A. Taft clambered back above Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower yesterday in the up-and-down race for Republican nominating convention delegates, and first primary returns from his home state primary in Ohio showed signs of a really big boost.

At the same time Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia pulled out in front of Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee in the early count on Florida's popularity voting for the Democratic presidential nomination.

There were no convention delegates at stake in Florida but Kefauver seemed likely to go ahead of W. Averell Harriman on the day's delegate picking elsewhere.

Taft got eight unopposed delegates in Ohio and picked up another pledged first ballot vote in a Missouri district convention for a total of 284. Eisenhower got two committed delegates from Missouri and one listed as "leaning" for a count of 281. The tabulation covers delegates pledged, instructed, favorable, willing to state a first ballot choice, or conceded by candidates.

The first fragmentary count in the Ohio Republican primary gave Taft's leading delegate candidate a four-to-one edge over the top man of a slate entered for Harold E. Stassen but the margin was cut down to about 9 to 7 on the next total reported.

The same tabulation gave Kefauver an edge over a favorite son delegation.

In Florida Russell's advantage started climbing with the first totals but by the time 722 of 1682 precincts were in he was only by about 2,750 votes ahead of Kefauver. Strongholds for each man were still unreported, however.

These were the developments on the political scene as voters in Ohio and Florida turned out in near record-breaking numbers to cast their ballots in two critical tests of strength.

In Ohio, Taft was pulling hard for a spectacular display of support in his own home state. The senator had put on an intensive drive, spurred by the knowledge that a weak showing would chill his chances for the GOP nomination in July.

Taft took an early lead in first meager returns in his home state.

Kefauver, seeking 31 of Ohio's 54 Democratic votes led in a contest with a favorite son slate supported by the state party organization.

The first five precincts to report in an at-large race to elect 10 Republican delegates gave the top Taft candidate 183 votes to 45 votes registered for the top candidate for former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota.

In a surprising show of early strength, James M. Carney, state representative from Cleveland, ran ahead of Michael V. DiSalle, former price stabilizer, in the race for the Democratic senatorial nomination. In five polling places, Carney had 290 to DiSalle's 121.

Former Gov. Thomas J. Herbert led Charles P. Taft, brother of senator, by 99 to 69 votes in eight precincts in the race for the Republican nomination for governor.

No popularity contest was involved and write-ins were barred. At stake were 56 delegate votes, with Taft seeking the full GOP slate against rivals pledged to Stassen.

Many of Stassen's candidates said they would support Eisenhower as second choice if elected to represent Ohio at the GOP National Convention in Chicago, beginning July 7.

Truman Attacks Realty Lobby
Washington (AP) — President Truman climaxed a bitter attack on the "real estate" lobby last night with a charge that "there have been certain things happening in this country that have been right down the alley Mr. Stalin wants us to go."

In what he described as a "whistle stop" talk, the President told a National Housing Conference banquet that he plans to go "from one end of the country to the other" as a private citizen after next January with a "hammer and tongs" attack on those who are trying to "hamstring" the government by cutting appropriations.

Irving Olds Retires
New York (AP) — Irving S. Olds retired yesterday as chairman of United States Steel Corp. and Benjamin F. Fairless was named to succeed him. Fairless also will continue as president.

McGranery Thinks President Must Exhaust Legal Powers Before Asserting New Claims

Washington, (AP)—Judge James P. McGranery, backed into a corner by senators examining his fitness to be attorney general, said yesterday an American president must exhaust the powers given him by law before he can assert any claim to inherent powers.

Members of the Senate Judiciary Committee insisted that he give a "yes or no" answer to the question, which has been raised in the legal arguments whirling around President Truman's seizure of the steel industry.

If confirmed as attorney general, McGranery will have the responsibility of advising Truman on legal issues.

At first McGranery said he could not answer the question yes or no.

Earlier he had protested that he was being asked for "horseback opinions" on constitutional questions which have been pending throughout American history.

Wilson Thinks Wage Spiral Perils Defense

Washington (AP)—Former Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson told Congress yesterday that if the government recommended pay raise for steel workers spreads through industry it will drive defense costs in the next year up by 5 to 6 billion dollars.

The former General Electric executive, who quit the mobilization post in the dispute over steel, made the estimate in a volunteer statement as a witness before the House Labor Committee in its investigation of the Wage Stabilization Board and its handling of the steel crisis.

After committee members had about exhausted their stock of questions, Wilson said he had not been asked but he wanted to volunteer the suggestion that if the 26-cent hourly package recommended by the WSB for the CIO-Steelworkers is allowed to stand, Congress had better hike military appropriations.

If it "goes across industry," Wilson estimated, the resulting inflation will knock down the purchasing power of the 46 billion dollars now set up for defense, to no more than 41 or 42 billion.

So Congress had better raise the amount to 51 or 52 billion, he said.

Wilson in earlier testimony recommended that the WSB be stripped of power to recommend settlements in labor disputes, and advised the congressmen to make sure of a firm policy on pay and price controls in any extension of economic controls.

"If it is a flexible policy you cease to call it control," he said and suggested the WSB has "a new policy for each case." Wilson stated the "general belief" that the public members of the WSB worked in union with the labor members to the virtual exclusion of the industry representatives, and broadly implied it was planned that way.

Rep. Vail (R-Ill.) read from records of the House Un-American Activities Committee to indicate that half the public members were, or at one time had been, members of organizations cited as Communist fronts.

Vall did not name the individuals either then or later when questioned by reporters.

Wilson spoke of a steel stoppage as a "debacle."

He figured that government recommended raises for the CIO-Steelworkers would amount to about three times what the men have coming under the rules and would set an inflationary goal for other workers.

He took the stand that it is "not realistic" to expect the industry to absorb such a cost increase without raising prices.

And he accused President Truman of having "left me out on a limb" by changing his mind after telling Wilson to work out a compromise on the steel pay-price issue.

Wage Board Asks Striking Oil Workers To Return; Resumption Of Talks Urged

Denver, (AP)—The Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) yesterday asked oil workers to return to work as a nation-wide strike began to cramp commercial air transport and was even felt by the U. S. Air Force in Germany.

This is the seventh day of the strike by some 90,000 CIO, AFL and independent unionists over wage demands. The nation's oil refining capacity has been reduced by a third. Military aviation has been curtailed. The government ordered a 30 per cent cut in aviation gasoline supplies for commercial and private flyers.

WSB Chairman Nathan P. Feinsinger asked for an end to the strike and renewal of bargaining to settle issues. To both company and union, messages also suggested that all parties meet with the WSB next Tuesday. Feinsinger requested immediate replies.

Secretary of the Interior Chapman reiterated that the government does not plan rationing of motor gasoline.

He said in a statement the next step in dealing with developing shortages "will be an order earmarking specified quantities of suppliers' inventories for emergency use as directed by the Petroleum Administration for defense."

Foreign Aid Bill Slashed

Washington (AP)—The House Foreign Affairs Committee yesterday voted to cut $1,010,900,000 from President Truman's $7,900,000,000 Foreign Aid Bill.

Chairman Richards (D-SC) said all of the cuts—aggregating 12.8 per cent—were from money requested for Europe.

The administration's request for $4,145,000,000 for military assistance to Europe was trimmed to $3,316,000,000—a 20 per cent reduction.

The committee voted a 10 per cent cut in defense support funds to provide the raw materials to spur European war production. The committee approved $1,637,300,000 of the administration's request for $1,819,200,000.

Gambling Tax Held Illegal; Appeal Slated

Philadelphia (AP)—A federal judge cracked down yesterday on a law that requires gamblers to buy a $50 tax stamp, calling it unconstitutional on the ground it is a police measure and not a tax bill.

U. S. District Judge George A. Welsh declared the measure illegal since its provisions required a man to be a witness against himself and an informer against others.

The 73-year-old jurist, a Republican on the bench since 1932, strongly attacked the measure and asked: "Is the purpose of the act a delegation of bureaucratic powers to create revenue or to constitute a host of informers?"

Specifically, the bill requires the gambler to list names, both real and aliases, and addresses of persons working for him.

Judge Welsh did not rule on the legality of another section of the act which requires gamblers to pay a 10 per cent tax on their earnings.

In Washington, the Justice Department was reported planning a quick appeal probably direct to the Supreme Court.

Vandenberg Will Undergo Surgery

Washington (AP)—Gen. Hoyt F. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff, became ill yesterday in his Pentagon office and will undergo surgery today. An Air Force spokesman said Vandenberg would enter Doctors Hospital for an operation, but did not disclose the nature of the surgery.

PEOPLE SOMETIMES GET CANNED for being too nosy. So do groundhogs. It happened yesterday to the critter above. Scratch marks showed he probably spent hours trying to get himself out of this hole. A sympathetic Snyder'sville resident saw him in a field, caught him and pulled the can off. The groundhog blinked in a sun moment and ran away. (Daily Record photo)

Williamsport Man Suffers Fatal Injuries

A 28-year-old Williamsport man was killed almost instantly at 3 a.m. yesterday when his tractor-trailer truck went out of control at the main intersection in Delaware Water Gap, clipped off a telephone pole and knocked over a tree towering about 40 feet into the air.

Alfred George Wagner died en route to the General Hospital in East Stroudsburg shortly after the crash. Dr. William E. Andrew, Monroe County coroner who investigated, said he died of a fractured skull.

His body was released to the Daniel G. Warner funeral home, Stroudsburg. In the afternoon a Williamsport funeral director, LeRay R. Sanders, claimed the body. Fred Decker, chief of police at Delaware Water Gap, was among the first to reach the scene. The accident occurred near his home. According to Decker the driver apparently attempted to cut his speed as he drove north toward Stroudsburg, but blackened tire marks about 50 yards south of the crash scene indicated his right rear wheel locked, spinning him to the west side of the road.

Decker also said Wagner suffered a crushed left leg and possible fracture ribs when the truck's cab was crushed.

The truck was owned by International Furniture Co., Montoursville. While the cab was completely demolished, the trailer portion was damaged only slightly. The cab, folded like an accordion, told the story of Wagner's death; the dashboard was pushed to within 18 inches of the most distant point of the driver's seat.

Impact of the crash ripped an overhead traffic signal from its mooring, sending the light crashing to the ground. Another truck traveling north crashed into the fallen light, but no damage resulted. Flares supplied by police and other truck drivers helped light up the highway section, darkened when electric lines were torn down by the crash.

The felled tree which halted the truck's motion towered high above the others and was about a foot in diameter.

Ripped to shreds was the gasoline tank, and its contents strewn over the highway. Five hours after the crash Chief Decker, still at the scene, cautioned spectators against dropping lit cigarettes in the vicinity for fear the gasoline would ignite.

Pfc. Alex G. Kern, of the Stroudsburg State police sub-station, was summoned but the investigation was conducted by Chief Decker.

Wagner lived at 711 Second St. in Williamsport. Funeral services will be held Friday at the Sanders funeral home there. Burial will be at the Montoursville Cemetery. Wagner was a World War Two veteran who was born in Lock Haven, Pa.

Surviving are his wife and five children; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Wagner Sr.; two sisters; and his maternal grandparents.

State To Open Bids May 16 On Local Job

The State Highway Department in Harrisburg yesterday announced the opening of bids on May 16 for resurfacing of 2.17 miles of U. S. Route 611 between Stroudsburg and Delaware Water Gap.

According to Raymond (Pete) Ellenberger, an official of the Monroe County Highway Department, this includes the route between the intersection of Routes 90 and 611 at the bottom of Foxtown Hill to the traffic light in Delaware Water Gap, located on Route 611.

The highway runs through Stroudsburg, Delaware Water Gap boroughs, Stroud and Smithfield Townships.

O. N. Lindahl, Director Of GSA, Expires

Harrisburg (AP)—Oscar N. Lindahl, of Pittsburgh, executive director of the General State Authority, died yesterday at Harrisburg Hospital. He was 67.

The hospital said his death occurred at 4:30 p. m. He was taken to the hospital last week suffering from coronary thrombosis, a heart disease.

Lindahl, a retired vice president of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., became the first directing head of the GSA after it was recreated in 1949.

He made his home in Pittsburgh. The GSA was created by the 1949 Legislature as a borrow-and-build agency of the Commonwealth.

As head of the GSA, Lindahl directed the construction of more than 100 million dollars in State projects in the past 2 1/2 years.

Western Union Agrees To Talks

New York (AP)—Western Union reluctantly agreed yesterday after two refusals—to open peace talks in Washington today with its striking AFL Telegraphers.

The company said it was doing so by order of director Cyrus S. Ching of the Federal Mediation Service.

Ching said Monday he was acting under the Taft-Hartley Act in asking Western Union to agree to the meeting in an effort to end the 33-day-old strike of 30,000 telegraphers.

Wasp Docks With Hobson Survivors

But 176 of the Hobson's crew didn't make it home. They were lost in four minutes of dark terror in a cold and stormy sea.

Army Supplies Worth Five Millions Stolen In Korea

Washington, (AP)—More than five million dollars worth of goods have been stolen from the U. S. Army in Korea and much of the pilfered supplies have gone into the Korean black market, the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee disclosed yesterday.

The defense watchdog group made public a memorandum received from the Army which stated:

One—Goods valued at $5,114,420 were stolen between Jan. 1 of last year and Feb. 9 of this year.

Two—Korean authorities "have frequently been apathetic toward American attempts to abolish the black market."

Three—About two million dollars worth of the stolen Army goods have been recovered and these recoveries now average about $40,000 a month.

Commenting on the Army memorandum, Chairman Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) said it shows, "that there is a Korean black market despite the best efforts of American authorities to shut it down."

The Senate group asked for the report, Johnson said, after receiving "a number of complaints of large-scale black market operations from independent observers who have been in Korea."

The Army, after an investigation by the Far East Command, said it is true that large amount of Army supplies have been stolen. But it denied reports that "remedial action has not been taken or that Army supply has been seriously affected."

The Army said a war-time scarcity of food and clothing in Korea had spurred "participation in theft and black market activities."

Army personnel who normally guard against thefts and black markets have been moved into combat, the report said.

Air Force Cuts Flying In Europe

Frankfurt, Germany (AP)—The U. S. Air Force has ordered a sharp reduction in all its military flying in Europe because of the U. S. oil workers' strike, an Air Force spokesman said last night.

Authorities Probe $400,000 Embezzlement Of Bank Funds

Perth Amboy, N. J. (AP)—Authorities combed statements and records yesterday for dollars and cents answers to the town-rocking embezzlement of $400,000 from the First Bank and Trust Co.

U. S. Atty. Grover C. Richman requested the FBI to aid local officials, still dazed by the scandal that crumpled a pillar of respectability, 50-year-old William C. Horley, vice president of the bank.

Richman said he planned to confer with Middlesex County Prosecutor Alex Eber to determine whether state or federal agencies will handle prosecution of the tall, jut-jawed bank executive.

Richman indicated that, although federal jurisdiction is involved since bank funds were insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., state authorities will follow the case through.

Eber, reportedly closeted in his New Brunswick office with bank officials and aides, was unavailable for comment on the progress of the investigation.

Earlier, Eber told reporters there were a lot of angles still to be straightened out and many questions still unanswered by the quiet, unassuming banker. Bank statements and financial records were under a fine tooth comb wielded by Eber's staff.

Horley, bespectacled, his straight, graying hair receding a bit, is free in $25,000 bail pending action by a grand jury on the embezzlement charge. He pleaded innocent.

Eber described Horley as a sort of a modern-day Robin Hood who has the "unfortunate characteristic of being a very generous man."

"He liked to help people," Eber said. "He made personal loans with bank funds."

Choruses To Appear At Two Schools

Approximately 80 members of Stroudsburg High School's choral music department will make a trip to two Northeastern Pennsylvania high schools Thursday morning for concert appearances.

The first of these two appearances will be made at 11 a. m. Thursday at Coughlin High School in Wilkes-Barre where the girls' chorus, madrigal singers and the mixed chorus will perform.

Following a luncheon at the Wilkes-Barre school, the chorus is scheduled to appear at Kingston High School at 2:30 p. m. for a second performance.

The Kingston student body has planned a party and dance in the Stroudsburg choruses' honor after the second concert.

The chorus members this year are responsible for the choice of numbers which appear on their program. Basically the concert follows an abbreviated form of the "spring concert" which was held here last month.

Choral Director Numa Snyder said yesterday that the current trip is the third annual undertaking of this sort, previous performances having been given in Northampton, Liberty High School in Bethlehem and Palmerton.

Ruth Fetherman serves as piano accompanist for the Decemets, a group taken from the membership of the girls chorus while Kathryn Ann Hickey is accompanist for the remainder of the groups.

Memorial Committee Maps Plans

Memorial programs were discussed and plans advanced for memorial services by the Monroe County Joint Memorial Committee at its monthly meeting in the Evans-Blitz, American Legion, Post Home at Mountainhome.

All veterans' organizations were invited to assist in the placing of flags on veterans' graves throughout the county before Memorial day.

All members were asked to turn out for the funeral of Robert O. Fish at the Warner funeral home, Stroudsburg, at 2 p. m. today. Military honors will be accorded.

The committee went on record to join with the East Stroudsburg Elks in celebrating Flag day on June 14 by way of the destruction of all discarded American flags with ceremonial procedure.

The June meeting of the committee will be held at the George N. Kemp, American Legion, Post

Home, East Stroudsburg at 2 p. m. June 5.

It is estimated that one million Americans have undetected diabetes.

Carol Carpenter Valedictorian Of East Stroudsburg Seniors; Two Share Salutatorian Honors

East Stroudsburg High School this year has come up with three honor students in its valedictorian-salutatorian finals.

Carol Carpenter was named valedictorian yesterday while second highest honors were split between Geraldine Chobey and Anthony DeLuca.

The two-way tie was declared unavoidable after school officials had carried the grade averages of the two students out to "the third decimal point."

It was finally decided that the two students should share in the salutatorian honors.

Miss Carpenter, the valedictorian, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Carpenter, 760 Milford Road, East Stroudsburg. In addition to her high grade average, she has been active in many school affairs, among them the school band. She was awarded a "youth-of-the-month" citation by the East Stroudsburg Exchange Club earlier this year and is a member of the National Honor Society. She also received the "Good Citizenship Award" made by the DAR.

Miss Carpenter will attend Cedarcrest College for Women in Allentown this fall on a scholarship.

Specialist To Speak On Guidance

Two major features of tonight's special public meeting at Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church offer residents of Monroe County an opportunity to know and understand the problems of adolescence and childhood in an authoritative manner.

The first of these is a discussion and address by Dr. Charles Morris of the Eastern (Monroe-Northampton) Child Guidance Clinic.

Dr. Morris for many years was supervisor of special education for Montgomery County and is now associated with St. Christopher's Children's Hospital in Philadelphia, an affiliate of Temple University.

He is a graduate of both Bucknell University and New York University, having received most of his training in psychiatry and psychology at the latter institution.

In addition to spending two days per week at the Eastern clinic, Dr. Morris maintains a private practice in Philadelphia.

During World War Two he served as an aviation psychologist in the medical service corps. He has published a number of articles on child guidance, both in clinical journals and in pamphlet form.

Second in importance on tonight's orientation program is the film "Angry Boy," a dramatization of the story of Tommy Randall, a pre-adolescent boy whose home life and family tensions have created a serious emotional disorder.

The film was written by Irving Jacoby and produced by Affiliated Film Producers, Inc.

Woods Fires Dangerous And Costly

We have just been reading the editorial pages of two newspapers which come in to this office regularly. One is from Carbondale, Pennsylvania; the other from Port Jervis, New York.

Both papers had for their lead editorial the ravages of fire in their respective areas when dry weather and careless motorists or fishermen throw lighted cigarette butts or matches into dry grass and leaves in the woods.

Both of these areas have had, within the past week, probably the most disastrous woods fires experienced in many years. In both instances these fires are reportedly the result of carelessness.

The Poconos are not immune from such conflagrations. As a matter of fact during the last week in April the Big Pocono section witnessed a widespread blaze which spread over thousands of acres.

We have had plenty of rain of late; but we have had a following of daily wind currents far greater than usual, which have tended to dry out the woods more quickly than is usually the case.

So a recurrence of this year's big conflagration which was a repeat of the big one in the Cresco section last year is more than a possibility. The fire in the Big Pocono section, according to police, was incendiary. Let's not add to this danger by being careless with inflammables carried on the person. Another time it might take lives as well as huge property loss.

Campaign Abuses

New records for political spending appear to be likely this year in the presidential and congressional campaigns.

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington—The New York Journal-American, at the risk of turning the 1952 Presidential race into a quiz contest, has been asking candidates from both parties a number of important questions bearing on foreign and domestic affairs.

Two leading presidential aspirants, as well as Gen. Douglas MacArthur, declined to answer the questions. MacArthur refused to reply on the grounds that he is not a candidate, and that his views are known anyway on issues raised by William Randolph Hearst, Jr., publisher of the Journal-American.

The other two who said "No, thanks," Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and W. Averell Harriman, cannot be excused for the reasons put forth by Gen. MacArthur. Harriman, however, may be sympathetic with his reluctance, since he was only recently named New York State's favorite son in the Democratic contest. He was selected, probably without his knowledge, by the Democratic machine bosses in the state, and it may be that he hasn't as yet accustomed himself to such lofty heights.

Eisenhower's declination is a different story. He shouldn't be excused, since Senator Robert Taft, Harold Stassen and Gov. Earl Warren, all GOP hopefuls, stepped up and took the quiz.

General Eisenhower can't be excused on the grounds that he isn't in the race. His backers are predicting a first ballot nomination for him and they have entered his name in several state contests with his permission. So nobody gets hurt but the general in continuing the fiction that he is a political mummy. He has always had plenty to say in the past, on any number of questions, including political ones. This was especially true during his tenure in office as president of Columbia University, and even then he was still subject to the whims of his commander-in-chief, Harry Truman.

Bill Hearst's questions included a nifty concern for the need for amending the constitution of the U. S. to bar the United Nations from usurping the freedoms guaranteed to us by that document.

Senator Taft wants a constitutional amendment limiting the power of the UN; Gov. Warren thinks a constitutional amendment is not needed; Stassen says the American Bar Association can handle the problem; Senator

Estes Kefauver agrees with Gov. Warren, and Senator Richard Russell says he'd handle the situation without an amendment if he ever gets to be president.

It's a fair question and Eisenhower and Harriman ought to admit it. The UN is conducting a global propaganda drive to accomplish its supremacy over our own and other governments and both the estimable gentlemen mentioned above know it.

There is a strong suspicion that neither of the two knows much about what goes on in Asia. Harriman has been the administration's political and economic gadfly for a number of years, but he has concentrated on Europe, which is pleasing to the internationalists of both parties.

Eisenhower spent a few years in the Orient as an aide to Gen. MacArthur, but his sentiments on our difficulties in that area cannot be found on the public record at this time. It doesn't seem possible that what the Communists are doing in China has escaped the attention of the General and Harriman.

Taft, Stassen, Warren, Kefauver and Russell all endorse more aid for the fighting men on Formosa. They also would ignore demands from Communist China for a seat at UN council table.

All the candidates who answered the questions are beginners in the League of International Military and Economic problems, compared to Gen. MacArthur. General MacArthur cried out against Communist aggression in Asia years ago; he served in wartime and during the postwar era in positions of high trust and unrest as well as Oriental problems. In a way, it's too bad he didn't reply to Bill Hearst's questions, but I'm sure we can all agree he is sure in assuming that the American people know his sentiments on the various issues.

It is perfectly plain to all of us that General Eisenhower knows, as does Bill Hearst, that the time is at hand for all the candidates to get on the record. It's the only way we can cast an honest vote for any of them.

Maj. Edwin H. Armstrong is credited with developing the system of FM (frequency modulation) broadcasting.

There is only one automobile in Japan to every 2,400 persons compared to a U. S. rate of one car for each four persons.

Nearly half of the 800,000 serious fires estimated for 1952 in the United States, will occur in homes.

with television added to radio as a costly element and with many tight contests in prospect for nomination or election.

And in light of the temper of the times it is also quite probable that this year's battles for Federal office will have more than the usual political smearing involved in them, with the net result that there may be a renewed effort to overhaul Federal statutes governing campaign contributions, expenditures, and practices.

Certainly the spending limits of $5000 in contests for House seats and $25,000 in Senate contests are evaded because the restrictions are meaningless in the light of the growth of the electorate, the decline in the value of the dollar, and increasing dependence on such expensive campaign accessories as television and radio.

The Federal Corrupt Practices Act purports to limit the congressional expenditures, as indicated, and a limit of $3,000,000 on spending by national committees is set by the Hatch Act. Other provisions include limiting individual contributions to $5000, a rule obviously capable of evasions by such actions as "loaning" large sums to national committees and then assuming these loans as uncollectable and thus deductible for income tax purposes, as we have recently seen.

A new bill was introduced last month to raise expenditure limits to realistic levels, and to make mandatory reports of all contributions to a central Washington office, and made available for publication in clear and concise form.

What action will be taken on this bill remains to be seen, but certainly the changing times and customs demand a review of present political campaign controls.

Union of South Africa leads the world in production of gold.

My New York

—By Mel Heimer

New York—I have been spending this morning feeling deeply sorry for the author named Gene Fowler, although I must admit the situation is not so tragic that one good book by Mr. Fowler can't change it all around and brighten the scene considerably.

Next to my champagne bucket and the coffee table I painted white myself, the most valuable item in my apartment is the bookcase, which covers one wall and stretches to the ceiling. There are six shelves in the case but Shelf No. 4 is the one that counts.

Mr. Fowler's seven books that I own once were on Shelf No. 4, but now they are on Shelf No. 5, and makes me sad, as if I were watching a one-time star actress playing a bit role in a road-company show. It is, of course, his own fault; when he wrote his first novel Trumpet in the Dust and now that I look at Shelf No. 5, who stole my Trumpet in the Dust? he automatically made Shelf No. 4, but after a couple of his most recent efforts I regretfully gathered up the Fowlers and arranged them wistfully on No. 5.

I have been eyeing Shelf No. 4 as I write this, and I am wondering if Freud (to whom I am quite respectful, but who is I am sure could make a psychological pattern out of it) I have on No. 4, for instance, 18 books by William Saroyan, beginning with his wonderful The Daring Young Man on the Flying Trapeze and coming right down to Tracy's Tiger.

No. 4 also includes nine books by Noel Coward, one autographed by the old bittersweet master himself, and three by Erich Maria Remarque, including Arch of Triumph, which prompted one of the few literary fan letters I ever have written. I wrote to Denver Lindley, the co-translator of the book, to tell him what a superb job he had done.

Shelf No. 4 has four books by Truman Capote, the 26-year-old Zip-the-What-Is-it of hellies letters, and five by H. L. Menckens, who is perhaps the most professional writer alive in the world today. Then there are four worn and yellowed volumes by Michael Arlen, although not, alas, the Green Hat, which is like keeping Shakespeare's works without Hamlet. There are eight Scott Fitzgeralds, side by side with the Arlens because they were of the same lovely, empty world, and the Mizener biography of Fitzgerald next to them, because of his subject.

Nine books by Graham Greene round out Shelf No. 4, and I have been considering putting a special spotlight over The End of the Affair, as the current book-of-the-shelf. Up on Shelf No. 5, we find the ones who haven't quite made the big time or the ones who, like Fowler, were there once and are not now.

Rex Stout is on Shelf No. 5, for example, and so are Sean O'Casey, James M. Cain, Dashiell Hammett and Stanley Walker. I find Willie Seabrook's Asylum there and Robert Payne's Forever China, and a half-dozen Paul Gallico, among which only The Snow Goose seems to hold year after year.

Shelf No. 3 is the peculiar one; as I look now I see Antoine de Saint-Exupery's Wind, Sand and Stars there, and the moment I leave off this work at the mill I will put it back on Shelf No. 4 where it belongs. John O'Hara is on Shelf No. 3—the classic Appointment in Samarra and then all the others, running clear down to the trashy A Rage to Live.

Lucius Beebe is on Shelf No. 3, and so is Salvador Dali, Dorel Lilly, George Frazier, S. J. Perelman, James Thurber and H. Allen Smith.

It's when you get down to Shelf No. 2 that you really and truly machine-gun scorn leveled. Here

BETWEEN THE HAMMER AND THE ANVIL

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

Far be it from me to stick my nose into the troubles that now exist all over the country between labor unions and management.

President Truman did it and look at the mess into which he got himself.

With all the talent now at work to solve the labor problems I certainly don't feel authorized or able to add anything, nor to suggest a solution.

But as an ordinary human being who is deeply affected, both in his heart and in his pocketbook, by all this turmoil, I want to make a few observations.

These observations concern you as much as they do me. They are NOT politics—I have promised you not to write about politics. They are just plain, ordinary, common horse-sense.

It seems to me that there is enough tragedy, enough suffering, enough grief in this world without us here at home being at one another's throat, hating and reviling one another.

It seems that with a little more kindness, a bit better understanding, a little more sympathy with our fellow man's feelings, people ought to be able to sit down and work out their grievances.

Life is very brief at its best. The $100,000 a year executive, in a short while, may be the

are Past Imperfect by Ilka Chase (who spoiled my evening at South Pacific by talking quite brightly and loudly at critical moments, in the seat in front of me), Gentlemen's Agreement, The Black Rose (how did that get in any of my shelves?), and something by Erskin Caldwell called All-Out on the Road to Smolensk, that obviously was a Christmas present or something forced on me when I lost an election bet.

Ernie Pyle, alas, is on Shelf No. 2, and Gerald Kersh's Faces in a Dusty Picture, which my literary agent discovered for the American public and over which we still argue mildly.

There are other assorted book-cases casually spread around the apartment, and then there is the place of honor, between book-cases on the living room table; Shakespeare's tragedies, Edna St. Vincent Millay's lyrics and sonnets, Robert Burns' songs and poems, The Story of Songs Which is Solomon's, King James version, the poems of Rupert Brooke and the lyrics of Ernest Dowson.

next door neighbor of the $60 a week laborer—in the cemetery. He may have a little better coffin, a more elaborate eulogy, a few more expensive wreaths—but he'll be just as dead.

In their business meetings all these men might think a little more of "Ecce Homo"—Behold the MAN—the human being, than of their bank accounts.

In all these labor discussions I have noticed that the unions and their representatives are entirely concerned with how much more they want to GET. Nothing is said about how much more they want to GIVE.

And when it comes to GIVING, I have noticed that everywhere there has been a terrific letdown in what the worker GIVES in exchange for what he gets.

There used to be an old saying, "The laborer is worthy of his hire."

But is he today? Whenever I go I hear men and women complain about how much less they get for the very much more they have to pay.

Even in the simplest household services there has been a definite falling off in QUALITY. The plumber, the electrician, the gardener, the maid—every one wants shorter hours and more privileges.

Instead of coming to work at 8, they start at 8:15. Instead of quitting for lunch at 12, they quit at 11:45. At 3:30 they start to wash up and get ready for home.

You can set your watch by the average working man—you know when it's 4 o'clock without ever looking at your watch.

I wish I knew what it is. Frankly, I don't.

It worries me—and I am certain it worries you. But I am sure of one thing: The same causes that are behind all these little defalcations of the individual working man are the causes of all our labor troubles.

Could it be that "good will among men" has disappeared from this earth?

World's first electrical power station for lighting homes and offices was built in New York City in 1882.

Three ex-Presidents of the United States—John Adams, Thomas Jefferson and James Monroe—all died on July 4.

Housewives in Zealand, Holland, scrub all painted wooden surfaces in their homes daily except Sunday and they redecorate with washable paint at least once each year.

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

Democratic Republicans

Two theories appear concerning the widespread participation of Democrats in the Republican primaries:

1. That the Republicans cannot elect a President without the aid of the Democrats or "independent" voters.

Therefore, the activity of Democrats, wherever lawful, in Republican primaries foretells the election of the Republican candidate who can attract to himself Democratic voters;

2. That the Democrats have devised a means for nullifying the Republican primaries, so that the Republican candidate is chosen not by his partisans but by those who seek his defeat on election day.

Theory No. 1 represents the Eisenhower position; theory No. 2, the Taft position.

Across both runs the disclosure of Sam Roseman that Franklin D. Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie were developing plans for a coalition party under their apparent joint leadership. It could only be apparent, not real, because as Roosevelt was actually in the White House, he would be the top man in such an arrangement and the Willkie Republicans would necessarily have been absorbed by the Roosevelt New Dealers. It was a plan for the obliteration of the Republican Party.

Again, it must be borne in mind that the original Eisenhower supporters planned for him to be nominated by both the Democratic and Republican parties.

General Eisenhower is reported to have told General MacArthur in Tokyo that he expected to be nominated by both parties. At that time, the principal manager of General Eisenhower's boom was George Allen, Democrat and associate of Harry Truman. The plan seems to have been a continuation of the Roosevelt-Willkie scheme for the capture of the Republican Party by the Democrats by infiltration and absorption.

Further, in the development of this plan is the enervating slogan: "Taft is the best man, but he cannot win." As the Republicans have not won an election since 1932, this slogan, widespread and continuous in its use, has frightened many Republicans who would prefer to win under any circumstances. The slogan has encouraged many Republicans to believe or hope that if they had a candidate for whom Democrats would vote, they could win at long last. Even if the Presidential candidate were not quite a partisan, the Senate and House would become Republican as the result of a landslide.

The direction of these movements is toward a one-party system such as Mussolini developed in Italy, Hitler in Germany, and such as now exists in each of the Soviet countries. There is nothing sacrosanct about the two party system, except that it actually serves the people better than the multi-party arrangement, such as exists in France where governments topple overnight, or the one-party system which enslaves the whole people to a self-perpetuating elite.

In this country, the two-party system has been developed to a greater efficiency than anywhere else, for the opposition party not only is capable of forcing the majority party to disclose its purposes and activities to the people, but by minority representation on the committees of both houses of Congress, the minority party is never without responsibility.

The reduction of the two-party system to a farce, as it must be when the members of one party vote in the primaries of the other party, could, in time, alter the political procedures of the country by making, let us say, Republican candidates for a nomination dependent upon Democrats. It is like boss Hague of New Jersey selecting, in the good old days, both the Democratic and Republican candidates, for Governor—so that no matter who won, Hague managed.

When it is coarsely stated in terms of a Hague overlordship, it is reprehensible to most Americans. But when the process is refined into Democrats voting in the Republican primaries, it does not appear to be so offensive. Actually it is worse, for it involves a subversion of the concept of the primary.

The trend among bankers and big business men to support a one-party system is characteristic of their revolt against the professional politician, who is no longer dependent upon them for funds. Democratic politicians get their money from labor unions and liberals; Republicans and campaign funds more readily in the Middle West and in Texas than in Wall Street and Pittsburgh. The bankers and business men therefore seek a coalition of influence, which can be a one-party system set up by them.

Their error is that Fascism is as abhorrent to the American people as Communism.

Try And Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

The 1951 edition of the Chicago White Sox had the whole Windy City talking about them. Thus it was that when a new member of the German department at Northwestern University greeted a colleague with "Was sagst du?" the colleague answered in disgust, "They were awful today. Got licked, eleven to one."

Jeremiah Digges, in "Cape Cod Pilot," tells about the old Hyannis merchant who hated summer visitors so much he faked this sign outside his store to discourage them: "No Hunting. No Fishing. No sody pop. No baseball scores. No Nothin'."

Letters For Special Delivery

Dr. Frank L. Boyden, Headmaster, Deerfield Academy

Dear Doc,

Everybody is thinking about the steel seizure, the court decisions, Harry Truman, the constitution and the future of America but I am just thinking about you and a horse.

How are you doing? They both take me back to a less befuddled, cockeyed and chaotic way of life. The other day a lot of folks who wanted to honor you for your fifty years in education at Deerfield, in looking around for a nice gift, came up with a horse and buggy which they presented to you at the Waldorf-Astoria. I have been thinking of it ever since . . . no diamond, no watch, no fat purse, no dream house, no trip to Sun Valley all expenses paid . . . not even your horse painted inside and out . . . just a HORSE AND BUGGY! In my book, doctor, it's the Gift of the Decade, one of the few grand prizes that make sense.

Up in that little Massachusetts town you like to drive around in something close to the surrey with the fringe on top. You are one of the few Americans left who has the impulse and courage to do it. Your secret ambition has always been to run a livery stable. You are a man after my own heart, doc. A fellow who has never driven a horse and buggy, known the thrill of hitching up Dobbin and felt the thrill of driving down Main Street in a rig with red wheels, has missed something. I know those satisfactions back when going out for a ride didn't call for bad breeding, terrible manners, tall profanity and a disrespect for everything else door and confront Jeanmaire and Farley Granger. Danny's first break-through didn't satisfy the director. They shot the scene twice more, after carpenters had installed replacement doors saved into invisible sections, like a jigsaw puzzle, to shatter easily.

Granger, supposed to hit Kaye with a cane, had difficulty doing it realistically without actually striking him.

I heard a junior executive mutter to someone, "The old man (Goldwyn) is jump these days. I duck when I see him coming." Anybody want to be a movie producer?

There had been more serious setbacks earlier. The original feminine star, Mollie Shearer, (whom Jeanmaire replaced) discovered she was pregnant. Kaye was out three days with laryngitis. Jeanmaire pulled an ankle tendon and lost eight days from the picture.

Then Danny Kaye's father died in New York. Danny had flown back for the funeral.

Too, there was that controversy with Denmark, which added to Mr. Goldwyn's worries. The Danish foreign press secretary expressed resentment that Kaye, a comedian, a mere song and dance man, should portray their serene national hero. The official said he understood there were biographical inaccuracies in the script.

Goldwyn replied that the film was never intended as a biography. It was supposed to be a possible incident in Andersen's life.

An original shooting schedule of 100 days appears to be stretching on toward four months.

And now Danny Kaye, in the scene I watched, was supposed to smash through a balsa-wood on the road. How's the horse behaving? An animal that's been a Waldorf Astoria guest may be a little uppity. (Wine with his oat, and all that sort of thing.) He knows there ain't another skinner in Massachusetts that's stopped at the hotel.

Overlook it, doc, if he is balky coming out of the barn. He's just waiting for the elevator. And he may think there was a "DO NOT DISTURB" sign on the stall. You will have to be patient. What have you named him? Not "Breakfast in Bed," "Epicurest," "Royal Suite," or "Prince"? I hope. Just give him some plain name like "Dan" or "Pete." As a kid I drove one called "Bunny" and he could beat "Sky King," "Gleaming Gold," "Lightning Duke," "Ace of Diamonds" and other skinnies with hifalutin monickers like that.

Here's to you and the horse and buggy, anyhow, doc! When it comes to gifts you've got the most sensible friends on earth.

Sincerely, Elmer

P.S.—If you ever realize your wish and own a livery stable I'll be seeing you, doc. There's so much snarling, snapping, name calling and general disorder around these days that a livery stable may turn out to be the ideal place for the ultimate gathering.

A fellow in New Jersey turned down a bequest giving him the income from a $300,000 estate last week . . . There's a smart fellow . . . He knows the trouble money can get a man into today . . . On a small salary he gets along fairly well, barring trouble with the groceries, but once he got into the $300,000 trust fund class, he wouldn't know a day's peace . . . Latest yarn in the steel seizure case is the story that the White House was at one time so distressed it wanted to have Johnny Ray sing the court plea for it . . . "It has begun to look serious." General Eisenhower on the primary returns . . . Yeah, Ike, you may have to go through with it . . . There was one thing you could say about the first decision in the steel case . . . It was so clear it couldn't be called "Knotty Pine." . . . Nothing so amazes a Democrat as an indication there are some things he can't do under law . . . The $6.50 and $7 steak is appearing on more and more restaurant menus, with the cocktail up to 90 cents . . . Are the boys trying to prove that there is a life without customers?

CUTIES

Hollywood — Sam Goldwyn's "Hans Christian Andersen" seemed, even as I stood on the set, to be a fixated movie indeed.

A workman hauled a light-shade up to a catwalk above. Whammo!—it swung over and knocked the glass out of a window in Copenhagen Square.

Jeanmaire, a shapely, statuesque ballet dancer from France, suddenly discovered an unbecoming looseness in the back of her costume. "Crisis!" muttered Danny Kaye, with fluttering eyebrows, as she complained to the costume woman.

There had been more serious setbacks earlier. The original feminine star, Mollie Shearer, (whom Jeanmaire replaced) discovered she was pregnant. Kaye was out three days with laryngitis. Jeanmaire pulled an ankle tendon and lost eight days from the picture.

Then Danny Kaye's father died in New York. Danny had flown back for the funeral.

Too, there was that controversy with Denmark, which added to Mr. Goldwyn's worries. The Danish foreign press secretary expressed resentment that Kaye, a comedian, a mere song and dance man, should portray their serene national hero. The official said he understood there were biographical inaccuracies in the script.

Goldwyn replied that the film was never intended as a biography. It was supposed to be a possible incident in Andersen's life.

An original shooting schedule of 100 days appears to be stretching on toward four months.

And now Danny Kaye, in the scene I watched, was supposed to smash through a balsa-wood

"You mean your delicatessen is going out of business? What's going to happen to my husband's home-cooked meals?"

East Stroudsburg Council Buys Police-Fire Radio System

Plans Strict Enforcement Of Meter Law

East Stroudsburg Council awarded a contract to supply a two-way police and fire radio system to the Motorola Co. last night.

Motorola was the only bidder. Cost of the equipment will be $3,119.45.

The equipment includes three hand-talkies for use of the fire company, two permanent land stations, one in the secretary's office and one in the police station—and two mobile units, one in the police squad car and one in the streets department truck.

Approval of the bid was by a four to two vote. Against the move was Harold Wiggins, council president, and Verdon T. Gilliland. Approving were Jack Wyckoff, who is also the borough's fire chief, Charles Buzenli, Roy F. Lloyd and Thomas Sexton.

Delivery will be made and installation started in a few months. It is first necessary for the Federal communications department to assign a frequency.

Two bids on automatic parking meters were rejected by council.

Instead, council decided to make a six-month test of strict meter ordinance enforcement. It was decided to start the enforcement Friday.

On and after that day, borough officers will no longer turn the handles on the present parking meters. If the red flag is showing, the motorist will be issued a ticket.

The recreation committee recommended the following persons to serve at the borough playground:

Lewis Hastie, reappointed director; Delores Sell, Mary Sue Harvey and Sandra Secor, basketball attendants at the swimming pool; playground supervisor, Frank Presty; guards, Thomas Foley, Donald Transue; (another supervisor and one more guard remain to be appointed); and Lois Hamer, cashier.

It was decided to erect two-hour parking signs on Maple Ave. The request of a Bushkill resident who wanted to live in a tent on a vacant lot on Monroe St. for the summer was turned down.

Council decided to have Ernest Younkin, borough health officer, attend all regular meetings of council.

Teenagers Plan Dance

Bushkill—Teenagers of this community are planning a square dance to be staged at Bushkill Fire House Friday night, May 23.

Junior committee preparing for the event includes Joan Dowling, Sylvia Faucett, Anita Keiper, Ruth Minter, Katherine Riedmiller, George Angie, Warren Eshback, Josh Heller and Harold Litts. The group will hold their second meeting this week to further plans.

Assisting the juniors as members of the adult committee are Mrs. Chester Brish, Mrs. John Britton, Mrs. Lawrence Butz, Mrs. Cornell Faucett, Mrs. Andrew Lewis and Mrs. Albert Schoonover.

Rev. Levergood Conducts Service

Poplar Valley—Rev. C. Clyde Levergood conducted a special service in honor of mothers and the home at Poplar Valley Church Sunday morning. Both the junior and senior choirs offered selections.

Mrs. Paul Albert, Mrs. Ernest Brewer and Mrs. Fred Dennis assisted in devotions. Family groups received communion in a body, marking the first time many children received.

Services of the same nature occurred at Kellersville church Sunday night. The Cherry Valley Church will hold a special Mother's Day service on Sunday, and the Poplar Valley Church also will hold a similar program.

Pvt. Jones Graduates At Army School

Portland—Pvt. Frank A. Jones, whose wife Ruth lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Olchewsky at Kittatiny Beach, Columbia RD, recently graduated from Discussion Leaders School at Headquarters, United States Troops in Trieste.

The school is conducted to train personnel in informing men stationed in Trieste on news of both civilian and military importance.

Private Jones is assigned as a gunner on a rocket launcher in Company B of the 351st Infantry Regiment. He was graduated from Blairtown, N. J. High School in 1946 and attended Rutgers University before entering the Army in July, 1951. He was formerly employed as a carpenter by his brother, George W. Jones in Blairtown.

Jack Eagle's Art Exhibit On Display

An exhibit demonstrating the various techniques used by a young Allentown artist, Jack Eagle, opened this week at the Stoff Gallery, 41 N. Ninth St., Allentown.

Eagle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Eagle. The father was formerly editor of the now defunct Morning Star, published in East Stroudsburg.

The elder Eagle was active in Monroe County affairs and was one of the guiding forces behind the organization of the "Three Arts Group" in this area for the encouragement of activity in music, painting and drama.

Jack Eagle was born in East Stroudsburg and lived in that area, attending the East borough school, for a period of 16 years.

Parole Granted To Roy Isely

Roy G. Isely, 23, of 15 Crystal St., East Stroudsburg, was paroled from the county jail Monday after a court hearing. He had been serving a year's sentence for the involuntary manslaughter of Willis E. Ensminger, fatally injured by a car while walking near his Tobyhanna home last October 21. Isely had been in jail since that time. He later pleaded guilty on the manslaughter charge before President Judge Fred W. Davis. Isely was represented yesterday by Attorney Forrest Mervine.

Bates Funeral Held Yesterday

Services for William D. Bates, 83, Analomink, were held yesterday at Lanterman funeral home, East Stroudsburg, with Rev. Ralph H. Feltham officiating. Burial was at McComas Cemetery, near Canadensis. Pallbearers were LeRoy Sebring, George Bush, C. E. Metzgar, Chester A. Coleman, Russell Barry, and Clarence Lee. Washington Camp, POS of A, Analomink, conducted memorial services at the funeral home Monday night.

Former County Pastor Dies

Portland—Rev. George Pifer, pastor of the Bechtelsville Lutheran Church, died suddenly Monday night at his home in Royersford.

He had recently undergone surgery at Pottstown Hospital. He was born in Jefferson City, a son of the late George and Hannah Wolf Pifer and had previously served as pastor of Lutheran churches in Minisink Hills and East Bangor.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. in Christ Lutheran Church, Nianti, Pa. Interment will be made in Lutheran Cemetery at Trappe.

Local Woman Treasurer Of District PTA

Local representatives to the annual conference of the Northeast District of the Pennsylvania Congress of Parents and Teachers held in Pottsville Saturday were Mrs. David Mazer, Monroe PTA council president, and Mrs. Merle Stevenson.

In the election of officers, Mrs. Stevenson was named treasurer of the district organization for a three-year period.

Mrs. George Bosak of Scranton was elected district president. Mrs. Bosak assisted with the school of instruction which was held at East Stroudsburg last year.

The Stroudsburg PTA received a gold leaf award for attaining its membership goal of a 10 per cent increase during the past year.

An announcement was made that the State PTA convention will be held at Pocono Manor October 20 through 22.

A summer session for local leaders will be held this year at Millersville State Teachers College. Every PTA organization was urged to subsidize a representative to the training session for PTA work.

Swink Lists 48 Arrests

Of the 48 arrests made by East Stroudsburg borough officers last month, 22 were for speeding. Police Chief Arthur Swink reported to borough council last night.

Next largest number of arrests was 13, for stop sign violations. The others were: running through a red light, four; being drunk and disorderly, five; disorderly conduct, four.

Chief Swink reported $355 collected in fines during the month.

Tulsa Chorus Greeted By Large Audience

The University of Tulsa Chorus, conducted by Arthur D. Hestwood, gave a concert last night at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College auditorium before a large and enthusiastic local audience.

The appearance of the choral group locally was sponsored by the Stroudsburg Rotary Club for the benefit of its charities fund.

One of the highlights on the program was the first performance of a suite for piano and male voices "Till Wait For My Love" by Tom Waring. Miss Elvina Truman was solo pianist for the performance.

Also featured on the first portion of the program was a Motet based on the 51st Psalm featuring the entire chorus and the "Pilgrim's Song" by Tchaikowsky, with the male quartet.

The choir was heard in the Kopylow-Wilchowsky "Heavenly Light," Samuel Barber's "Let Down The Bars, O Death" and "His Coming In Glory," an adaptation of the Prelude and Fugue in B flat by Bach, arranged by Harry Simeone.

Miss Truman played Dohnanyi's "Capriccio" as a prelude to the performance of "Till Wait For My Love."

The Oscar Hammerstein-Jerome Kern ballad "All the Things You Are" and three tunes by Tom Scott—"Sing Song Kitty," "The Gallows Tree" and "Wailie, Wailie" swung the concert back into a more popular vein.

A second tune by Tom Waring, the perennial "So Beats My Heart For You," provided another popular song for the chorus' talents. The choir closed the second part of the program with a Simeone transcription of Enesco's "Roumanian Rhapsody."

In its third and final portion, the chorus "let its hair down" with a variety of western tunes, spirituals and a square dance to enthusiastic applause from the audience.

Birth Announced

Mrs. and Mrs. Lawrence Weeks, 20 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, became the parents of a son on Friday, May 2. The child was born at home.

Couple Seeks Information On G. I. Son

A Dover, N.J., couple reached out to Monroe County yesterday on the slim hope that some veteran of the Korean fighting might know something of the disappearance of their son, missing since Dec. 3, 1950.

He was Cpl. Thomas C. Estwick, member of the third platoon, Co. E, Second Battalion, Seventh Regt., First Marine Division. A replacement who had been under fire a short time, he was wounded in the chest and right shoulder, his parents said.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Estwick Sr., of 24 Mount Hope Ave., Dover, said their son was last seen when he was wounded in the reservoir area of Yudam-ni, north of the 38th parallel where the First Marines fought their way out of a trap to reach the east coast.

Organizations Meet Jointly

Effort—A joint meeting of the Women's Society for Christian Service of both Tannersville and Effort was held at the IOOF hall here.

Mrs. Francis Beers, retiring president of the Effort society directed the meeting. Mrs. Walter Johnston of Stroudsburg was guest speaker. Her subject was "Parsonage Family."

Offering was donated to the Philadelphia Home for the Aged. A buffet luncheon was served and a social hour followed. Rev. and Mrs. Johnston and Rev. and Mrs. LeRoy Barnard were among those present.

County Home Staff Lauded By Jurors

The grand jury wound up its work in a single day yesterday.

It heard the one case presented to it in the morning, then moved on to an inspection of county facilities and buildings.

The jury commended the county home superintendent and his staff for the "excellent condition of the buildings and grounds and for the cleanliness of the premises."

It was suggested that the fire hoses at the home be tested.

At the county jail jurors recommended repointing of the exterior stone work and brick where necessary, and repair or replacement of rain gutters and downspouts.

The doors and wood trim in the living quarters and sheriff's office should be repainted and the living room on the first floor redecorated, the jury suggested.

Other recommendations:

Veterans Affairs and Children's Aid building: lay linoleum on the second floor of the VA building and install locks on the windows; install screens on the windows in both buildings; paint the outside of the building and provide new rain gutters where needed; perform "badly-needed" repairs to a portion of the roof and re-flash where needed.

State Clinic building: repair and properly support the trap door cellar entrance.

Courthouse: repair leaks in the exterior wall and ceiling of the law library as "neglect may cause damage to the books;" re-tread or otherwise repair the exterior steps at the Monroe St. entrance to correct a "dangerous" condition and present the "least possible hazard to the public."

The report was submitted by jury Foreman Sue Price and read to the court by John D. Garcia Jr., secretary.

Grand Jury Indicts Man In Fatality

A true bill was returned by the grand jury yesterday in the case of Jack Sustek, 43, Astoria, L. I., charged with involuntary manslaughter.

It was the only case considered by the jury.

Sustek was driving the car in which Joseph Fody, 46, Bloomfield, N. J., was killed in an accident near Kresgeville March 9, according to Brodheadville State police. The two men were brothers-in-law.

Eliminate Errors In Home Design

"If I were building my home all over again I would do things much differently."

Many a home builder, after the home is built expresses that sentiment and wishes he could build another in order to take advantage of the things he learned on the first.

Experience is a good teacher, but there are other less costly ways of accomplishing the same result. Money, time, and worry may be saved by learning as much as possible before a start is made on a new house.

These Facts Help

Officials of the Federal Housing Administration have pointed out facts which prospective home builders should know and remember. Among these are the following:

1—A square is the most economical form in which a given amount of space may be enclosed.

2—The rectangular shape simplifies the structural framing system of both floor and roof and thus effects economies. Additional corners increase the unit cost of the house.

3—Dormer windows are sometimes desirable, but a roof without dormer windows costs less than one with dormers.

4—An inside chimney costs less to build than one on the exterior.

5—Bay windows add to the livable qualities of a home but also increase construction cost.

6—When a full basement adds to the cost of the house, it may be possible to build an extra room above ground for the same amount.

Stock Items Economical

7—Stock millwork instead of special designs for doors and windows, finish trim for wall openings, bases, cornices, and other items is a real economy.

8—Room sizes which permit the use of standard lengths of lumber without cutting produce a house which may be built with less waste and less labor.

9—Economy in plumbing installation is possible by locating plumbing fixtures so as to avoid an excessive amount of piping.

10—A short driveway costs less than a long one. Careless garage location may double driveway costs.

Furniture In Natural Color

When it is desired to change painted furniture to natural color, all of the old paint should be thoroughly removed with paint and varnish remover. When all of the old paint has been stripped off, wash the surface thoroughly with turpentine. Then smooth the surface with fine sandpaper, wipe off all dust and apply an oil stain of the desired color, in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions on the container. Finally, apply two coats of clear, transparent varnish, being sure to let the first coat dry before the second coat is applied.

Galvanized Steel Cans For Garbage

Health and fire prevention authorities advise new home owners to make one of their first purchases a galvanized steel garbage can. These containers are recommended because their close-fitting covers keep rats and fire away from refuse. In addition to being both rat and fireproof they are zinc coated to prevent rust and corrosion.

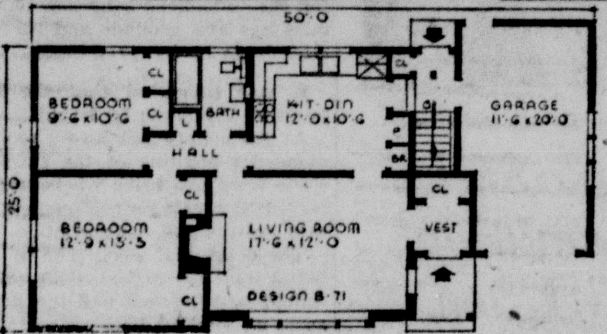

Tape Seals Seams

Seams on linoleum floors can be successfully sealed and smoothed over by running a strip of cellophane tape down the full length of the crack. By shellacking over the tape, the surface will hold up for an indefinite period. This not only prevents dirt seeping through but prevents tripping as well.

Best For Slip Covers

Home economists emphasize the importance of selecting closely-woven fabrics for slip covers because they give greater protection against dirt, hold their shape better, wear longer and tailor more easily than do loosely woven materials.

THE BENNETT is planned to have wide overhanging eaves, a picture window and stone or brick facing on the living room walls. These features add interest to the front elevation. The balance of The Bennett has wide siding. Concrete or cinder blocks can be substituted for the exterior walls. The roof is covered with asphalt shingles. Addition of a garage to the side of this small house gives it a spacious appearance from the front. The generous amount of closet space, small hall leading to all rooms and simplified plumbing installation with kitchen and bathroom adjoining, make the floor plan arrangement of The Bennett exceptional. There is a total of nine closets. A coat closet for each entrance; broom and pot and pan closets in kitchen; a linen closet in the hall and twin closets in the bedrooms. High side windows in the bedroom offer additional wall space for furniture. The main body of The Bennett is 38 feet, by 24 feet. It has an area of 817 square feet, without the garage. There is a volume of 17,423 cubic feet, including the full basement. For further information about The Bennett, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

Cedar Closet Is Necessity

High up on the list of unwelcome summer visitors is the moth. No matter how well screened or how careful people are about not leaving unprotected doors open, these pests seem to be able to come in, make themselves at home, and sit down to a nice meal of blue serge, fur coat or wool blanket.

A fine protection against these possible ravages of moths is a properly constructed cedar closet, where winter blankets, furs and clothing may be stored.

The entire surface of the closet, including the inside of the door, should be covered with three-eighths-inch aromatic cedar lining. It is preferable to line the floor with thirteen-sixteenths-inch, but three-eighths-inch can be used. The door should be tight fitting and close against felt gaskets. The lining may be placed directly over plaster if care is exercised to nail it to the studs. Face nailing is suggested, but blind nailing may be used if desired.

The corners should be fitted with quarter-round cedar moulding. Cedar shelving may also be used with added effect. The more aromatic wood employed the better the check against moths. A further precaution is to thoroughly clean any article before storing.

Coat Closet Handy

A coat closet in the main entrance hall of a home will contribute much in convenience to the entire family. The size of the closet will necessarily depend on the individual requirements and the space available. The floor should be of material that is easily cleaned, as the closet will also be a storeroom for overcoats and dripping umbrellas.

Soundproofing

The prospective home owners may achieve effective soundproofing between two bedrooms or between bedroom and bathroom by locating closets in the connecting walls. The double walls form good barriers to sound.

Roof Designs Can Add Real Touch Of Beauty To House

Time was when a roof was recognized as a necessary part of a home, but one that had little to do with the beauty of the building. Almost any material that was readily available, serviceable, and not too costly was used.

Today there is a roof for every style and kind of modern architecture, and it is these roofs that round out the dignity of the house and give it the beautiful lines and grace that the skilled plans call for.

Choice of materials is wide, but should be made with an eye to the type of house on which it is to be laid. Some of the most popular roofing materials are: Composition, both rolls and cut; wood shingles of various thicknesses and color; slate and asbestos shingles of high durability and unlimited color ranges; and tile, handmade or machine made. Tin is not usually employed for house roofing today except where it is imperative to effect a savings.

If a modernization project contemplated calls for a new roof, it is wise to consult an architect or builder and get his ideas on the type and the material best designed for your home.

Means To Remedy Damp Basement

Damp basement walls can frequently be corrected by grading the surrounding ground away from the building to insure quick shedding of surface water. Eaves troughs connected to a sewer or dry well should be provided to carry away the roof drainage and eliminate a water-soaked soil condition near and against the house. Under more severe conditions it is often necessary to dig a trench around the exterior basement walls and brush coat them with an asphalt compound or apply a one-half inch coat of portland cement mortar. Drain tile laid in a bed of crushed stone and connected to a sewer or dry well should then be installed and the trench back-filled.

Arguments For, Against Basements

Logical arguments can be presented for and against the matter of a basement in a new house. Climatic conditions, the size of the house, and the type of heating system to be used are deciding factors in the matter.

Frequently space needed for heating equipment, fuel, laundry, storage and other purposes can be more economically obtained above than below ground and to advantage in convenient usage. Better light and air are available, and upstairs utility rooms also save steps.

On the other hand, basements offer ideal storage space for solid fuels such as coal, coke, or wood, because the fuel can be cheaply delivered by gravity into suitable storage bins. They also offer ideal conditions for storing certain foods where space separated from the heating plant is provided and when proper use is made of the earth temperatures.

Earth temperatures at the level of the ordinary basement in the United States seldom go below the freezing point and seldom rise to more than a few degrees below the average seasonal temperature. This factor can be utilized to good advantage for the storage of foods such as apples, potatoes, beets, winter squash, etc., and for the storage of canned foods and preserves.

Mirrors Add Color

Large Closets Waste Space

As the closet is a purely utilitarian part of the house, it should be compact and efficient rather than large and space consuming.

In turning over a large area over to a closet, the home planner automatically shuts off a floor area that would otherwise be given to living or bedroom space. The closet door remains closed most of the time so that a closet too large is actually space wasting.

Closets should be measured to suit the demands of the home owner and sufficient storage needs should dictate the sizes of the areas to be closeted.

Heat Loss

Heating engineers find that more than 44 per cent of all heat in a home escapes through walls and ceilings that are not insulated.

SPCA Provides Real Service To County But Frequently Finds Itself Low On Ready Cash

By Leonard Randolph

One of the agencies which offer constant service to residents of Monroe County and the Stroudsburgs is the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Located in their new kennel headquarters (without kennels) on Foxtown Hill, the society is now prepared to handle more animals than at any time in its recent history.

It is also in a bad way financially.

Since moving into the new property January 7, the society's custodians, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie F. Young, have done their best to provide adequate space for housing the many stray dogs and unwanted animals which come under their care.

In this case, however, the best has been barely good enough. Working with their hands and the few tools at their disposal, the Youngs first of all managed to clear off weeds and rubble from the property, clearing the way for sheds and kennels, which they did not have, but which they hoped to see built eventually.

Once the space was cleared, the society appealed to the Record for assistance in finding a few "coops" as temporary housing for the animals, already needing shelter.

In response to a Daily Record story, residents of Monroe County contributed a variety of coops and shelters which had been lying, unused, in their backyards and around their farms. The Youngs put them to immediate use.

The coops were erected in back of the house and provided adequate temporary housing for nine or ten dogs collected by the society. Mr. Young filled the coops with cedar shavings "to help scare away fleas."

During April, 15 strays were picked up by the society. Almost all of them had to be "put to sleep" since there was no proper place to keep them and no foster home in which to put them. In cases such as these 15 the society pays the cost of elimination.

Like almost all dog lovers and persons who are instinctively fond of animals, however, the Youngs do not relish the idea of "doing away" with one of their strays. They, and the society resort to it only as a last alternative.

With barely enough facilities to care for ten dogs, however, it is impossible for them to care for large numbers at the present time.

In locating foster homes for strayed and unwanted young animals, the society uses the columns of The Daily Record. In advertisements published in this newspaper nearly every day, residents who are "in the market" for a good dog, may find precisely what they're looking for. The society provides a fairly complete description of the dog, its pedigree (if any), its coloring and, in some cases, even its appetite. Interested parties are asked to contact either the downtown office or the Youngs in connection with advertised dogs.

It is in the location of dogs in foster homes that the association gives its greatest community service. Through relocation of the animals it (1) prevents dogs from running unattended on streets and through the surrounding countryside; (2) assists persons who want good dogs in finding and keeping them and (3) gives the animals good care while they are "homeless".

Both Mr. and Mrs. Young are in agreement on one thing. Residents of Monroe County (like almost every other community in the U. S.) in which an SPCA office is located are not quite certain what function the office serves in the community.

In cases such as this the Youngs invariably advise the owner to have the dog put to sleep personally. The reason for this is obvious: almost nobody wants an old dog which someone else has "gotten rid of". Although the discrimination may be unjustified and unfair, for the most part, it remains true of the prospective dog-owner.

One woman called the Youngs recently to ask them to "come and take my cat to the vet—he's sick". The Youngs explained that this was not one of the fundamental purposes of the organization.

Right now, the SPCA is attempting to secure funds for the erection of a kennel 20 ft. by 40 ft. to house a maximum of 30 animals. The kennel would be built with concrete runs on both sides in a manner which would make daily cleaning and sanitary measures possible.

Unless additional financial aid is forthcoming, however, it seems unlikely the kennels will be built soon.

In the meantime, there is the matter of current expenses to keep the society on the brink of the red side of the ledger.

Each animal kept by the society on the Foxtown Hill property costs nearly $30 per month. In addition to this, the mileage on the car which the society uses for investigation of cases and a monthly milk bill for puppies adds up to a considerable extra tab.

Donations to the SPCA generally come from persons who are "adopting" a dog. These gifts amount to from $1 to $5, although some philanthropic individuals may go as high as $10.

The gratification gained from the relocation of an animal, however, alleviates the disappointment society officials may feel when the contributions fail to come in.

At the present time, the Youngs are keeping six dogs on the property. These are: A mixed Spitz and collie, male; a German shepherd-collie, female; a male dalmatian; a female terrier; a female cocker spaniel and one breed unknown.

There are also two black cats, both male and brothers and a grey-and-white kitten named "Mittens." "Mittens" is the Youngs' pride and joy at present—she has seven toes on each of her front paws.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Young are hoping they may be able to find homes for the animals soon. (Although it works in far more cramped quarters than do many SPCA offices throughout the nation, the local branch keeps dogs from two to four weeks—five to ten times longer than average time.)

Neither the custodians nor the office help associated with county SPCA receive pay. The Youngs live

Work Under Way At PP&L Plant

Preliminary work is already under way at the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co.'s new Martins Creek power plant on the Delaware River, it was reported yesterday.

An informal meeting was planned between company officials and residents of Lower Mount Bethel Township from 8 to 9:30 p. m. Thursday at the consolidated school at Martins Creek.

Officials will explain the purpose of the new plant and the methods of construction to be used. Completion is expected in 1954 for the first unit of the plant.

In the Foxtown Hill house rent free, but receive no other remuneration for their efforts at present.

When the annual membership drive begins during July and August, all those persons associated with the office are hoping that residents who have been assisted in the past will remember its efforts on their part and the part of the community as a whole.

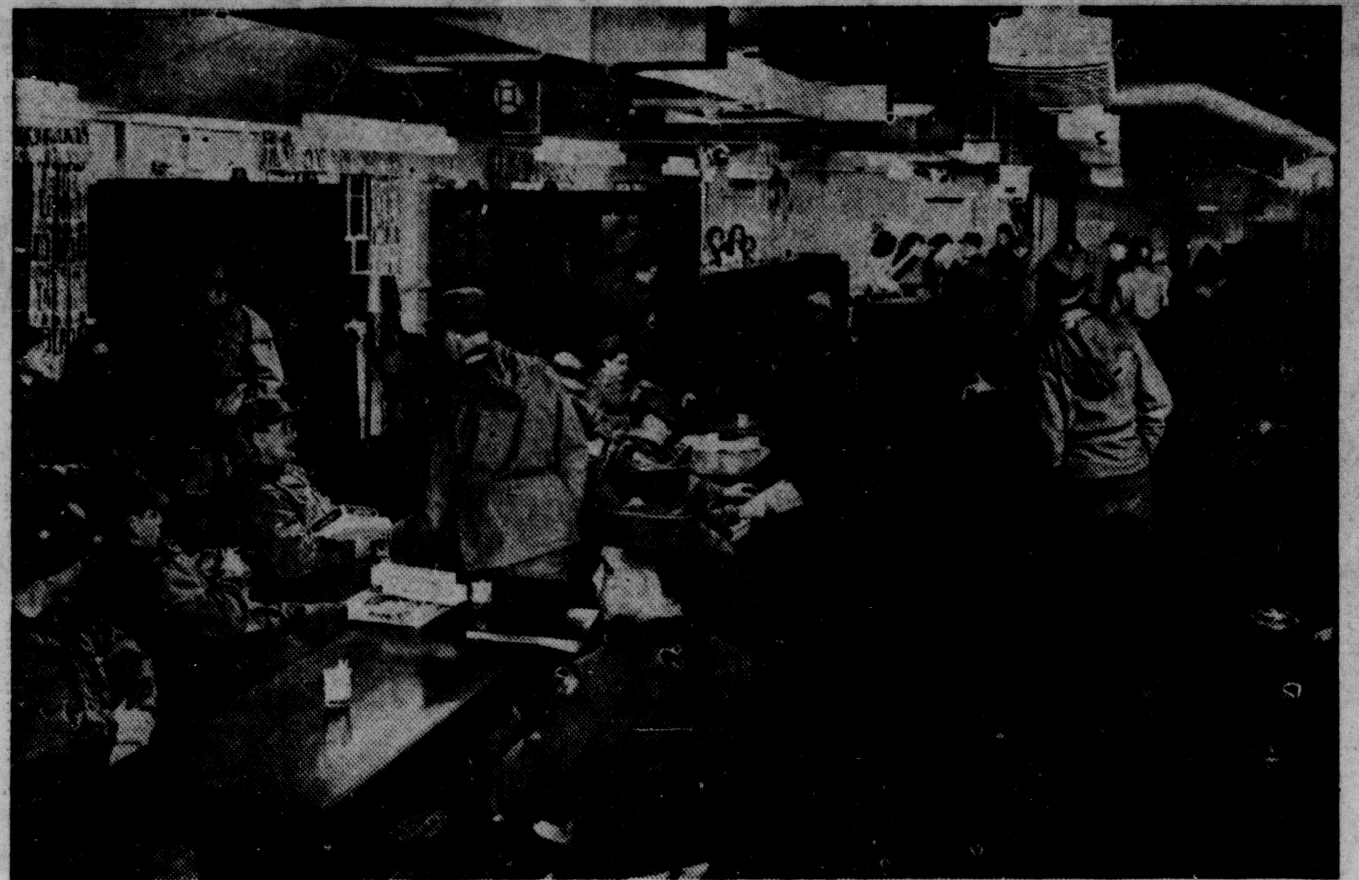

In the meantime, it would seem proper to pause for a moment and reflect upon the many humane services offered by the agency the year around.

In the writings of Christianity it is made plain that the eyes of the Almighty are "on the sparrow."

The story of Monroe County's Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, then, must be the story, also, of a truly Christian doctrine—that the measure of a man is in his attitude toward lowly creatures and in the humanity which he displays in his daily life.

Another hard day of training is over . . . but the busy hours are just beginning for this Telephone Center at Indiantown Gap.

"CORPORAL JONES IN BOOTH 12, PLEASE"

It's hard to see the loud-speaker in this picture. But you can be mighty sure it's heard! Every few seconds, the operator at this Indiantown Gap Telephone Center calls out the name of another soldier who's waiting to hear a wonderful "Hello!" from Mother or Dad... or from wife or sweet-heart... maybe from you.

Handling the thousands and thousands of Long Distance calls from training camps is one of our most important jobs. One of the most heart-warming, too! That's why we've gone all-out to provide plenty of telephone service at military installations. That's why we've strived so hard to make the men comfortable in Telephone Centers while their calls are being put through. Magazines and newspapers are there for the asking, and the smokes are on the house.

Any way you measure it, telephone service in military and naval establishments has increased tremendously during the past two years. Yet this is only part of the story. Defense industries have called for many thousands of new telephone lines, and there has been no let-up whatever in requests for other types of service. So we're stepping up our expansion program again. This year will be one of the biggest and costliest expansion years in our history.

ALWAYS BE CAREFUL DRIVING

It makes each drop of gas say uncle

ACCORDING to combustion experts, there's as much energy locked in a drop of gasoline as there is in a drop of nitroglycerine.

But the problem is to put that energy to work.

So Buick engineers aren't content just to mix that drop with air and touch it off. They've designed an engine that brings it catapulting into a cylinder head where it strikes a turbo-top piston—gets whipped into a churning, swirling ball of tight-packed energy.

Then it's fired. And when that happens, a drop of gasoline certainly lets loose power.

This isn't something that happens in a "car of the future."

It happens in a Buick Fireball 8 Engine today. It's a high-compression engine. It's a valve-in-head engine. But it's also a Fireball in performance as well as name.

And it puts extra power under the hood—and extra miles in the fuel back in the gas tank.

Now, power is great, but what goes with it?

Mister, that's something you ought to find out—and soon.

What goes with it is an automobile as sweet-handling, eager and willing as anything that ever made your pulse leap to a faster beat.

It's a car that seems to know what you want it to do—true and sure in its course on a straightaway—beautifully balanced on curves.

It's a car with Dynaflo Drive* to feed power with infinite smoothness—and a road-hugging levelness of ride that took a million in cold cash to perfect.

And it is, with all this, a very tidy bargain. Why not price it, drive it, know it for yourself? We'll be glad to arrange a demonstration.

Tru-Matic Fast Becoming Major Industrial Plant

The almost of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. Also of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is produced here; how it is made, the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By James Gaffney

A new industrial baby to the Stroudsburg is growing rapidly and shows promise of developing into full-bloom maturity by the assistance of other cooperative local industries.

Tru-Matic Machine and Tool Co., Inc., entered the local industrial world as the result of encouragement by the industrial committee of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce and leading citizens of Monroe County. And in 1949 on the outskirts of East Stroudsburg, along Route 190, it made its appearance on a property five and a half acres acquired through the efforts of the chamber's group.

A bond was floated for $75,000 and extended for a 15-year period, marking the beginning of Tru-Matic and the commencement of another business in the Stroudsburg that is carrying this name throughout the nation and world.

Tru-Matic had its real beginning Jan. 1, 1946 in Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and was incorporated in 1947. But when a zoning problem arose in the West Chester County community the officials of Tru-Matic reluctantly sought another location. Since then, with innumerable changes having occurred, company officials expressed themselves as being exceptionally grateful for the move, announcing the reception here as being most cordial and the cooperation exceptional.

When the Schiebel brothers, Arthur and William, came here with Robert R. Hellmann they started operations with 11 local workers. Today the concern has grown to great proportions in the short period and employs 60 persons while contributing last year about $175,000 in payrolls and salaries to the Stroudsburgs.

Evidence of the company's potentialities is their expansion of 5,000 square feet just recently and the manner in which that additional space was utilized. Further expanding could occur almost momentarily by moving a tentative wall northward to embrace more ground.

All three officers are lavish in their praise of the men who work at the plant. According to William, who is secretary-treasurer and superintendent of plant operations, the men in this area have shown an unusual adeptness mechanically. "Despite the lack of skilled labor in this section the caliber of men who came to work for us were quick to improvise and showed good inclinations to mechanically operating parts," he said. "Today we have trained many men at the highly skilled professions but they have shown us they possess a general good mechanical background."

HERBERT CRAMER operated a hydraulically controlled open-side planner at Tru-matic Machine and Tool Co., Inc. north of East Stroudsburg, a Pocono Mountain Chamber of Commerce sponsored plant that employs 60 persons.

Arthur Schiebel, president of Tru-Matic also voiced approval of the workmen and emphasized the cooperation given the plant by other industries in the area.

About 40 per cent of production today is for the war effort. The U. S. Navy takes most of the metal parts produced and they are used in aircraft and for radar equipment. An additional 40 per cent goes into sub-contracting work for nationally known concerns and the remaining 20 per cent is devoted to the manufacturer of famous Tru-Matic toys.

Steel, the basic material used in the firm's production, "is our life's blood" Arthur said. Other metals also are utilized and a welding shop in charge of Ellis Bartholomew trains and trucks bringing materials to the plant.

One of the major operations at the plant is finished by Ray Blitz, who operates a riveting machine. Blitz, totally blind, has shown an unusual adeptness at performing several other functions, including assembling and operating a press.

Punch presses of various sizes comprise much of the expensive equipment in use and recently an open side planer was purchased and is operated hydraulically.

William Schiebel terms the toys he manufactures "glorified kiddy cars." Listed for sale at many retail stores throughout the nation are tractor hand cars, bulldozers, road rollers, tug boats and sand diggers. Latest innovation to the market is a machine gun which shoots small wooden pellets. Production on this line has just started.

Tru-Matic has built an enviable reputation for efficiency and dependability with concerns prominent in radar, electronics, aviation and civilian fields. Among the partial list of famous names served by Tru-Matic are General Electric, Philco Corp., RCA, Grumman Aircraft, Chase Aircraft, Bendix radio, Worthington Mower, Western Electric, Patterson-Kelley, Ronson Art Metal and scores of other well known firms.

Among the items manufactured are air conditioning and water cooler parts, cable holders, test equipment boxes, service tools for airplanes, experimental and radar panels and chassis, farm machinery and equipment, pocketbook frames, mufflers, brackets and supports, tank parts and many other types of metal articles used in all phases of industry.

The plant is equipped to handle precision work on all types of ferrous and non-ferrous metals, including aluminum, stainless steel, alloyed steel and magnesium. Their presses have a capacity from 250 tons and machine division is equipped with milling machines, turret lathes, surface grinders, engine lathes, drill presses, sanders, etc.

In addition to the three officials here at the plant, others who form the board of directors are Richard Hellmann, former president of Hellmann's Mayonnaise and now head of Richell, Inc.; Ramon Sieminski, president and Charles Solaki, superintendent of Brunswick Laundry; Dr. Edward Zlonczewski, director of dental hygiene, Jersey City, N. J. and Herbert Aronson, Mt. Vernon attorney.

Key personnel at the local plant include Fred L. Metzgar Jr., general foreman; Frank A. Bender, model shop and short run sheet metal fabrications; George Manos, foreman of quality control and inspection department and Paul R. Daily and Douglas Townsend, foremen of machine shop.

Also, Helmut Hahn, die shop foreman; John Metzgar and Greenwood Bogart, press department foremen; Arthur Mosteller, spot welding foreman; John E. Drake, finishing; William H. Thain, assembly and Richard W. Staples, shipping.

Happy Fireman Acclaims Vaylo

Daylight Found Me Completely Worn Out

Mr. Page Garland, Fire Captain of Hampton, New Hampshire writes—My duties as Fire Captain are performed at all hours of the day and night, and are a terrific tax on my system. I had no appetite, started to lose weight and sleep was next to impossible. My nerves were just plain ragged.

I was told that I had a vitamin and mineral deficiency. I tried many things without success until a druggist friend suggested VAYLO. I had read about it in Reader's Digest, so started VAYLO and within a short time I felt like my old self. Even the boys at the Fire House noticed the improvement in my condition.

VAYLO has worked wonders for men and I would not be without it for the world. I want to tell everyone about it.

It certainly is the one formula that lives up to all it claims. Get the Genuine VAYLO at KRESGE DRUG STORE

A Ticket Is A Favor

You knew a ticket was coming when the siren sounded behind you and the flashing red light blinked in your mirror—and you knew why.

But did you even stop to think the officer was doing you a favor? Well, he was! Traffic patrol officers know their business. They are the ones who help clean up the gory messes on the highways, but their big job is to prevent accidents from happening.

There's no personal animosity in a ticket—and it may be saving your life and the lives of others in a positive way. Remember, driving is a responsibility as well as a privilege.

When you see a speeder getting a summons, be glad the law is dealing with another traffic violator—making your trip on the road safer. And if you ever drive out-of-turn—exceed the speed limit, go through a red light, cross a traffic line at a "no-passing" point, or violate some other rule of the road—recognize the fact that you are a candidate for a ticket.

And when the officer hands it to you—even if you don't say it out loud—think: "Thank You."

Pastor From Poland Here On Visit

Delaware Water Gap—Another Spring is welcomed by every man, but it is doubly sweet to a man who had stood in a Russian prison yard expecting to be shot at any moment. Such a man is Pastor Jacob Gerhardt, formerly of Orlau, Poland, now a spring-time guest of relatives in Delaware Water Gap.

He was pastor of a Lutheran church in Orlau when Poland was over-run by the Russians. He was promptly imprisoned and during his six months in the prison camp, ministered to the prisoners. He was finally asked what he would like to have for his last meal, and ordered to stand with others in the prison courtyard. It was while they were lined up, awaiting the firing squad, that the prison officials announced that they were to be allowed to go free. Many of them collapsed at the news.

With his wife and three grown sons, Pastor Gerhardt went to Westphalia, in Germany where they all lived in one room in a German Lutheran home.

It was through the efforts of a Methodist minister in New York that they finally came to America. Eventually he expects to preach to a Polish congregation, but at present is serving as assistant pastor at the New York church.

He is visiting his niece, Mrs. Hoffman and his sister, Mrs. Redzig in Delaware Water Gap, and will speak on WVPO on Thursday morning, attempting to tell local people something of what the food packages have meant to the displaced persons of Europe.

In his conversation with residents of the village, he has spoken of those prison months as among the most precious of his memories, when living under the hourly imminence of death, he found "how close God can come."

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

With the leaves big enough to make a rustle, it was a temptation yesterday to stand still to listen to them.

There was quite a rustling, too, at the Junior Women's Club last night what with installation of officers, and Mrs. Harry Shinnen as their guest. It was her first official act as county president, and one which she did with neatness and dispatch—and wearing a very tricky hat with a purple flower held on the back as if by magic.

Neatness and dispatch might be the Junior Women's motto because they certainly get off to a running start—what with their major project and major activity already projected for next year.

Couldn't help thinking, though, that imposing as the reports of the committee chairmen were on the work accomplished during the past year, the biggest individual accomplishments didn't show up at all.

It's only when you study the list of members and realize how many of them changed their names in the course of the year, and think about all the new babies—prospective Juniors and prospective husbands for prospective Juniors—that you appreciate how really capable the members are.

All that, and club work, too. Well, more power to them.

Now is the time to have your old Fur Coat remodeled.

Mrs. Richard Fredenberg New President Of Jr. Women

Mrs. Richard Fredenberg was last night elected and installed as president of the Junior Woman's Club for the coming club year at a meeting held at the Stroud Community House. Mrs. Harry Shinnen, of Barrett, officiated at the installation as her first official act since being elected president of the Monroe County Federation of Women's Clubs at their May 1 meeting.

Other officers installed included Mrs. John Sibley, first vice president; Mrs. Warren Mikels, second vice president; Mrs. Alexander Bensinger, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Chester Miller, recording secretary, and Mrs. Richard MacDonough, treasurer.

As the closing act of her administration, Mrs. James Cummings, retiring president, presided at the business meeting when the club adopted the Salvation Army as their major project for the coming year, and a fashion show as their major activity.

Reports of all the chairmen of committees were presented, providing a review of the successful year's work. Still remaining on the club calendar is the final Saturday morning moving picture for children of the community which will feature "Huckleberry Finn" this Saturday morning at the Sherman Theater at 10:30.

Climaxing the club year will be the annual banquet to be held Friday, May 16, at 7:30 at the Club Fernwood.

The business meeting was preceded by a program on interior decorating with Leo Karshner speaking on the place of paint in the home, and Mrs. Shaller on interior harmony. They were both presented by Tony Auer.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses of which Mrs. Ruth Zettlemoyer was hostess and which included Mrs. Harry Crouse Jr., Miss Ardeth Groner, Mrs. Charles Auger, Mrs. Lester Boushell, Mrs. Russell Imbitt Jr., Miss Dorothea Marsh, Mrs. James Morgan, Mrs. Anthony Quaresimo and Mrs. Joseph Yutz.

Robert Benschel Is Married In Harrisburg

Miss Carolyn R. Caldwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Caldwell, of 1409 Second St., Harrisburg, was married to Robert J. Benschel, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Philip Benschel, formerly of East Stroudsburg.

They were married at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Harrisburg on Saturday, May 3, with Rev. John Metz officiating at the double ring ceremony. Music was presented by Bernard Wertz, organist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white imported Chantilly lace over satin. Her cloche-type hat was attached to a fingertip veil and she carried a bouquet of white sweet peas and stock with a center corsage of gardenias.

Miss Mildred Crone, maid-of-honor, wore a green net gown over taffeta, and carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

Paul Weary Jr., of Stroudsburg, was best man, and the ushers were Dudley W. Grove, brother-in-law of the bride, and Douglas Landis.

A reception was held at Rose Tree Inn, LeMoyn, Pa.

The bride is a graduate of William Penn High School and was employed by the Pennsylvania Threshman and Farmer's Mutual Casualty Insurance Co. The bridegroom is a graduate of Stroudsburg High School, Temple University School of Pharmacy, and is a pharmacist and assistant manager of People's Drug Store in Hyattsville, Md.

On their return from a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Toronto, Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Benschel will live in West Hyattsville, Md.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. Howard Jones and Miss Patricia Benschel, of East Stroudsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Weary Sr., of Stroudsburg.

Nurses Work Described For WSCS

The nursing service available to all residents of Monroe County was explained in a talk given by Mrs. C. Edward DePuy, executive director of the Monroe County Organization Public Health Nursing, at the meeting of the Women's Society of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church on Monday night.

Mrs. DePuy explained the major purpose of the organization as the care of the sick in their own home. The public health nurses, however, can also often prevent disease by encouraging the practice of good health habits, can promote health in the individual, family and community level, she added.

Registered nurses will give bedside care on a visit basis to anyone in the county, she said.

Mrs. DePuy was introduced by Mrs. Merlin Rutt, program chairman, following a devotional period led by young people of the church. A young people's chorus sang the opening prayer and Miss Joyce Fry read a story, "Color Blind."

Following the program, a business meeting was held when Miss Catherine Wolverton was reelected president of the group. Other officers elected included Mrs. Merlin Rutt, vice president; Mrs. William Shearer, promotion secretary; Mrs. Roland Dunkelberger, recording secretary; Mrs. Horace Stiff, financial secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Staples, treasurer;

Mrs. Nelson Frantz, secretary of missionary education; Mrs. Nelson Westbrook, student work; Mrs. Samuel Lee, literature and publications; Miss Ruth Piper, spiritual life; Miss Grace Dreher, status of women; Mrs. Paul Shiffer, supplies; Mrs. Walter Johnston, youth work; Mrs. Robert Wilson, children's work; Mrs. Willard Davis, counselor of Westminster Guild; Mrs. Will Kraemer, financial; Mrs. George Sebring Sr., Fellowship; Mrs. James Mader, printing and publicity; Mrs. Paul Fetherman, decorations and preparation.

Mrs. Nelson Frantz announced that a film "Sings to the Word" would be shown at the June meeting.

PTA Council Election On Thursday Nt.

The annual meeting of the Monroe Co. P.T.A. Council will be held Thursday, May 8, at 8 p.m., Clearview School. Election of officers will be held, a slate having been prepared by the following nominating committee: Robert Hellman, Mrs. Merle Stevenson, and Mrs. Elmer Veety.

Plans will be made for the participation of local P.T.A.'s in the state P.T.A. Convention to be held at Pocono Manor, Oct. 20-22.

A new film distributed by the Bureau of Mental Health Dept. of Welfare, Harrisburg, will be shown. It deals with "What Mental Health Can Mean in your Community."

Council meetings are open to all registered P.T.A. members. All newly elected or nominated officers are especially urged to come to this meeting.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

I suppose they're in New Orleans now... meaning our Wyckoff Travel Bureau excursionists to Guatemala. In the party are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Wyckoff, Edna Harmon, Edna Brockman, Beatrice Gorgy, Amy Ellenberger and Harold Fehr, all of the store family; Mrs. D. D. Streeter of Brooklyn; Miss Ida Shafer of Mountainhome, and Mrs. Lillian Savidge of Stroudsburg. Ruth Barnard is working with Ann Weiss in the accessories department during her sister's absence, and while Amy is gone Mae Ward will be assisted in notions by Ruth Bush... Funniest thing I've seen today was Kitty Miller trying to raise and lower her new folding umbrella. As Edna Saylor, our switchboard operator, kept telling her, "It's simple, once you know how." Nevertheless, we're glad Kitty decided to master it before she was caught in a storm. Those umbrellas are beautiful though, and a perfect size for tucking into a suitcase or cosmetic kit. They sell in our umbrella department in every conceivable color from $5 to $10.95... Harry Congdon Jr., of the men's department, tells me that a very special value is now being offered there. Those handsome men's rayon slacks which ordinarily sell at $6.95 are being offered for clearance at the unbelievable price of two pairs for $10. They're made of Dupont Neoprene, and just right for summer, spring or fall, in a variety of colors and a 30 to 42 size range... The coming national conventions have at last made themselves felt in Stroudsburg. I noticed two customers in the store yesterday wearing "I Like Ike" pins. One was glancing over a magazine article entitled "What Makes a President" being featured in this month's Ladies' Home Journal... Yesterday's news story in the Record brought down congratulations galore upon Jack L. Kerlin, our new general manager. Mr. Kerlin is the brother-in-law of Henry Kresge, our Sears store manager, or did you know?... Queries are now being phoned into the boys' department about white First Communion suits, I'm told. These must be special orders, but Wyckoff's is prepared to oblige its customers... New dresses are arriving daily in our fashion department, the latest for my money being a printed navy and white sheer with full elbow-length sleeves, a white Peter Pan collar, and a softly draped skirt; also a silk slanting in "tweed" on tailored lines with a scarf at the neckline. Clothes! Wonder how much dressing up I dare do before my conscience gives me a "dressing down?"

Shirley Leap Is Bride Of J. Batchler

Miss Shirley Irene Leap, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Leap of East Stroudsburg RD 3 became the bride of Jack Batchler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Batchler, East Stroudsburg RD 1 on Saturday afternoon, April 26, at 3 o'clock in the parsonage of the East Stroudsburg Methodist church.

Rev. Harold C. Eaton performed the ceremony. The bride was attired in a blue street-length dress, with white accessories, and wore a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

Mrs. Florence Leap, sister-in-law of the bride, also wore a blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Raymond Leap, brother of the bride, was best man.

Others who attended the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Leap Sr., and son John, Jean Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Batchler and sons, Jimmy and Junior.

Later in the afternoon a reception was held at the home of the bride's family where they are making their home for the present.

Wooddale Area Is Scene Of Biggest Blaze

An estimated 600 acres were blackened under the flames of nine separate grass or forest fires in Monroe and Pike counties yesterday, the district forester's office reported in Stroudsburg.

Late last night, five of the fires still were going, though none was moving very fast.

Two fires were located in an area along Coolbaugh road, north of Marshalls Creek. One started at 12:10 p.m. The other was reported at 2:40 p.m. about two miles north of the first blaze, near Lake Monroe. Three wardens directed volunteers in the fight against the fire. An estimated 250 acres was burned off by the two fires yesterday.

Another 300 acres was burned off by three blazes north of Circle H Ranch, between Wooddale and Brodheads Creek road. The Northern Stroud Fire Co. aided inspectors and rangers in fighting the flames.

Another large fire occurred near Pocono Lake, just west of Henning's store, close to Pocono Lake Preserve. The Pocono Lake Fire Co., forest wardens and volunteers from Pocono Manor turned out after the blaze was reported at 3:30 p.m. The fire was brought under control before it could damage any of the houses and cottages in the area. Some 50 acres of pines and other trees were burned off.

The other three fires were comparatively small. Two acres were destroyed three miles north of Camp Tamiment, near Bushkill, by a blaze which was reported at 2:40 p.m.

A fire which started about 1:50 p.m. traveled across six acres near Egypt, Pike County, before it was extinguished by the Paupack Fire Co.

Another two acres in Monroe County were burned off in a grass fire east of Clermont Ave. in South Stroudsburg. The Stroudsburg Fire Department responded.

Cancer Talk Given Before Lions Club

Stroudsburg Lions at their dinner meeting in the Penn-Stroud hotel last night were reminded of the necessity for early diagnosis in cases of cancer, and saw a motion picture film illustrative of that point.

Dr. Claus Jordan, surgeon, spoke on cancer problems. He told of cases of cancer he had observed only yesterday at the General Hospital and in his office practice and touched on the great variety of forms that the scourge assumes. He said that one of five average people develops cancer at one time or another and that early diagnosis is an absolute must in effecting a cure.

He explained, also, the great need of education of the public mind in detecting cancer. He pointed out that some persons have suggested that strenuous efforts to educate people in the great cancer danger may create cancerphobia. Nevertheless, it is necessary, he said, and as far as cancerphobia is concerned, it can be readily cured, but lack of early diagnosis may be fatal.

He told of a radio being secured for local use through a special fund.

The program was presented by the Monroe County Chapter of the American Cancer Society and Principal Alfred Munson of the Stroudsburg High School, representing the chapter, had charge of the program.

Report was received of the progress of work in organizing a Lions Club in Milford and of the assistance given by Cass Hassinger in this enterprise.

Assembly Programs To Help Students Schedule Subjects

Beginning Thursday morning, Stroudsburg High School will present a series of assembly programs designed to assist eighth graders and upperclass men in the selection of schedules for the next school year.

At the Thursday assembly Assistant Principal Samuel Wells, in co-operation with members of the high school faculty, will present a background of knowledge on specific subjects to aid the student in selecting a course of study.

Monday, May 12, ninth, tenth and eleventh graders will hear a brief orientation talk by instructors on new subjects to be offered by the school next year.

Included in these outlines will be discussions of the new "shop math" and "conversational French" courses.

Tuesday from 7:30 to 9 p. m. parents of eighth grade parents are invited to go to the school for interviews on their children's special aptitudes and apparent potentials.

Thursday, May 15 has been set aside as actual scheduling day. There will be no morning classes on that day.

The procedure for assignment of schedules will be the same as that inaugurated last year, in which classes are processed at separate intervals.

The repeat performance is being made since school officials feel that last year's scheduling setup made a more balanced program possible for the individual student. The number of "dropped subjects" this year was lower than during any other preceding year, indicating the students were more satisfied with their course of study.

Although the Romans occupied England for 400 years they never conquered Ireland.

Life of Riley

Sports Editor

Bad luck has stalked the Stroudsburg High baseball club in virtually every game thus far this season and yesterday was no exception. Ray Hogrelius was scheduled to open on the mound for the Jerry Stulgaitis coached contingent. However, the sophomore right hander was delivered a low blow by the mumps and will be unable to play for two weeks, according to reports. Illness hit the promising hurler just when the big starting chance was at hand, as Stulgaitis had planned to give Hogrelius the opening pitching assignment against Whitehall High yesterday.

Gene Caskie, Stroudsburg center fielder, out of the lineup with an ankle injury, may return to action on Friday, against Slatington, at Gordon Giffels field. The injury, which occurred in the last inning of a recent game with Northampton while Caskie was sliding into home plate, is really an aggravation of an old basketball injury, so this column has been informed. Stroudsburg has several tough games ahead in the present basketball season, if comparative scores mean anything. Lehighton recently took the measure of Emmaus, 3-2, and Emmaus is the club that won over the Mountaineers on opening day, 1-0.

Stroudsburg Little League tryouts will continue on a daily basis until Monday, May 19, at which time the four clubs in the circuit will select players. All selections will be made by managers of the clubs. The four teams in the league are Penn-Stroud Hotel, People's Coal Co., First Stroudsburg National Bank and Security Trust Co. The league is scheduled to start operation early next month, in its newly constructed park.

George "Kelly" Condrick, pitcher with the Stroudsburg Poconos in 1948 and 1949, recently went the distance for Rochester and outpitched Ottawa's Joe Coleman for an International League victory. Coleman formerly did his pitching with the A's, until arm trouble developed two years ago. Condrick, who lives in Tannersville during the off-season, has also worked in relief a couple of times since we last spoke of the strong-armed right hander.

Clarence "Buck" Etchison, former Mahanoy City pilot in the North Atlantic League, having a tough time as manager at Harrisburg thus far this season. The class "B" Inter-State League contingent had lost six of its first seven games prior to last night's action. Etchison piloted the Mahanoy City entry in the now defunct NAL in 1947 and 1948. Ted Wiewand, former Slatington High and Copley American League pitcher great, is scheduled to oppose Hagerstown, for the Allentown Redbirds tonight, in Allentown.

Ronnie Kump, former Lebanon hurler, when that club was in the North Atlantic League, tossed a six hitter against York on Monday, as Allentown celebrated its home opener with a 6-4 victory. Kump also added three safeties to Allentown's 11-hit attack. Harry Schaeffer, still a member of the New York Yankee mound corps, is taking advantage of the Yankee night games to spend a few hours at his home in Shillington, Pa.

Bob Staph, Daily Record correspondent in the Newfoundland area, is taking a riding about the lowly position of his Yankees at the present time. However, as in the past Bob may again have the last word on October 1. It has become a habit in recent years. Yankee fans in Monroe County aren't, for the most part, certain that their favorite club got the better of the deal which found Irv Noren going to the Stadium for Archie Wilson, Jackie Jensen and Frank Shea. All three new Washington figures came through in great style in their first two outings with the Senators.

Parkland Rolls Over Bangor On One-Hit Pitching Chore

Parkland—Bangor High felt the sting of a strong Parkland High baseball team here on the latter's home field yesterday, as Parkland finished on the winning end of a 12-0 score, as Dean Lakatos hurled a masterful one-hit contest.

The lone safety off Lakatos, who was handled from behind the plate by brother Denton, was a single with two out in the first inning by George Dellasandro.

Control
Otherwise Lakatos was in complete control of the game, retiring 13 Bangor batters on strikes and not allowing a free ticket to first base.

Parkland, considered by many as the power of the Lehigh-Northampton League, put the game on ice with eight runs in the seventh, four of which crossed the plate on a grand-slam circuit smash by Bob Rabert. The home club held a 4-0 edge going into the seventh round.

The winning team picked up a single in the second and three in the fourth, and then drove Dick Craver from the hill in the big seventh.

Cavaliers Inflict Loss On Pen Argyl

East Stroudsburg High School fought its way back into title contention in the Lehigh-Northampton League yesterday with a 7-2 victory over Pen Argyl, previously the only undefeated club in the circuit. The Cavaliers did all their scoring in two innings, pushing three runs across the plate in the third and four in the sixth round. The game was played at the East Stroudsburg Playground.

Ray Steele, returning to the win column after his only loss last Friday, stopped the Pen Argyl club on two hits and retired 16 batters via the strikeout route. The lanky Eastburg right hander issued seven bases on balls.

The Cavaliers teed off on Vern Shaplin, veteran right hander, for three markers in the first, but Pen Argyl came back to tally one of its two runs in the second on a defensive mixup at first base, which allowed a runner to score from third while the Cavaliers failed in an attempted double play.

No Doubt
However, all doubt was taken out of the game in the sixth, when the Cavaliers ran wild on the base paths for four runs. The rally brought Shaplin's tour of duty to an end and Coach Fred "Benny" Leonard substituted Jerry Bellis on the hill for the last two innings.

Pen Argyl pushed its final run into pay dirt in the opening half of the stretch frame.

Jim Miller accounted for both of Pen Argyl's hits, a triple and a single, while Marlin "Ducky" Martz slammed a triple for the only extra base hit to the credit of East Stroudsburg.

The Cavaliers accounted for nine safeties, with Martz, Harold White and George Lifts leading the attack with two each.

Former Stroudsburg Pitcher Sent To Kansas City On 24-Hour Recall Basis By New York

Harry Schaeffer, southpaw pitcher who demonstrated plenty of promise during the spring training season, was optioned to Kansas City, of the Triple-A American Association last night by the New York Yankees.

Schaeffer, a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and one of the mainstays of the Stroudsburg Pocones' pitching staff in 1946 and 1947, was sent down on a 24-hour recall basis, which means that he may be recalled by the parent club on a 24-hour notice.

The North Atlantic League graduate was the talk of the spring training season, defeating such clubs as the Brooklyn Dodgers and Detroit Tigers, the latter able to solve his low breaking southpaw stuff for only one hit in seven innings.

However, Schaeffer made a rather poor showing against the Brooklyn Dodgers in his only appearance in Yankee Stadium, in the first game of the City Series. The obviously nervous hurler was unable to find the plate in that game and some poor support enabled the Dodgers to score five times in the five innings the popular lefty worked.

Schaeffer was unavailable for comment last night, having departed from his Concourse-Plaza Hotel at 8:45, with Kansas City as his forwarding address.

It was reported at a late hour last night that Schaeffer's option was prompted by the belief that he would benefit more by regular work at Kansas City than he would by riding the Yankee bench.

A well informed source let it be known that Schaeffer probably would have seen very little action with the parent club this season.

Speaker Points Out Factors In Athletics At TTHS Banquet

Pocono Pines — Sam Donato, football coach at West Scranton High school, urged all athletes to remember that sportsmanship and scholastic standing are important factors in high school athletics as ability itself, during remarks addressed to the Tobyhanna Township High School Athletic Banquet, here in the high school gymnasium last night.

The visiting mentor's remarks were well received.

Awards
Co-Captains Norman Lewis and "Buddy" Judge accepted The Daily Record trophy for TTHS, as a reward for the school's basketball team having won the Monroe County League crown for the third straight year. The Daily Record trophy is given each year to the winner of the circuit's title.

Otto "Junior" Mills, president of the league and coach at Chestnuthill High, presented the junior varsity trophy to the same school for winning the title in that league last season.

Melvin Berger and John DeSanto, representing the Pocono Lake firemen and Pocono Lions respectively, dedicated the new bleachers presented to the school recently.

C. Willis Dunlap, school principal, was toast master for the annual affair. Approximately 100 people enjoyed a turkey dinner.

Mountaineers Run Wild Over Whitehall, 11-2

Whitehall — Stroudsburg High went on a hitting spree yesterday and buried Whitehall under a 13-2 score in a Lehigh Valley League contest played here on the losing team's home field. Karl Weingartner, Jack Newell, Alden "Red" Fetherman and Al Adelmann led the attack for the winning team and Bill "Lefty" Metzger came through with a brilliant relief pitching chore to cement the victory.

Metzger was ushered into the ball game with the bases loaded and nobody out in the fourth frame and one run already across the plate. Layton DeHaven picked the runner off third base and then Metzger wound up the inning by fanning the next two hitters.

The slightly built southpaw was touched for another tally in the bottom of the seventh, but his mates produced such a lead that the outcome of the game was never in doubt.

Trouble
Dick Shuster slammed the door in Whitehall's face until the fourth, when he walked four straight batters to force home a run.

Benny Miller drove home the first two runs for Stroudsburg in the fourth, when he singled, with two outs and runners on second and third.

Williams, DeHaven and Adelmann blasted long triples, while Weingartner came through with three hits in four trips to the plate.

Gate Split Announced For Title Scrap

New York (AP) — The International Boxing Club yesterday announced a 30-30 percentage split between middleweight champ Ray Robinson and light-heavy king Joey Maxim for a 175-pound title bout June 23 at Yankee Stadium.

Harry Markson, IBC boxing director, said the same 30-30 terms would prevail for a return bout within 90 days, in case Robinson wins. If Maxim wins—and he's a seven to five favorite on the morning line—there will be no return.

Meeting
Both fighters and their managers, Jack Kearns, Maxim, and George Gainford, Robinson, will appear before the New York State Athletic Commission today to sign official contracts in the presence of chairman Bob Christenberry.

The announcement of an even split on the gate was greeted with knowing smiles by insiders in the boxing business. Many believed Robinson had been given some extra inducement to overcome his stated reluctance for the match.

Markson, however, insisted the 30-30 figures will be on the commission contracts. He also said they will cover any extra receipts that might come from television, theater-TV radio or movie rights. No decision has been made yet on TV plans, although the theaterpeople were on the scene bright and early.

Three ESSTC Teams In Action Today

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College sends three of its athletic teams into action today, but all on foreign fronts. The baseball team and men's tennis squad see action at Rider College, with both events listed to begin at 3 p.m. The ESSTC girls' tennis team tangles with Swarthmore College, at Swarthmore, at 4 p.m.

The baseball contest at Rider, to be played in Trenton, N. J., is expected to be one of the most hotly contested of the present campaign. Both clubs battled through the rain to a 3-5 deadlock on Normal Hill recently, in a contest that was halted at the end of nine full innings by the ESSTC curfew.

Coach George Ockershausen announced yesterday that Bob Mellman, veteran right hander, has been nominated to do the pitching for the Warriors. The remainder of the lineup will remain intact.

Lineup
This means that Hobart "Hobe" Hutchins will do the catching; Lyle Krall will handle the first base duties; Jim Werkheiser will be on second base; Dick Pritchard, shortstop; Harold "Hal" Slisco, third base; Gerald Murray, left field; Art Schaare, center field, and Joe Check in right field.

A total of 17 players, manager and coach will make the trip.

The men's tennis contingent will also make the trip with the baseball team and swing into action at the same time.

Members of the singles division will include Bill Schmidt, Al Malik, Charley "Bud" Wilson, Bob Garrett, Joe Maiorillo and Jack Andrews. The doubles division will feature Malik and Garrett in one team; Wilson and Schmidt in the second and Maiorillo and McAndrews in the third.

Rider holds a 4-2 lead in a match halted by rain at ESSTC last month, and the two schools will also try to complete this match if time allows today. Although Rider is ahead in the score, ESSTC holds a slight edge in the not completed doubles department.

The girls of ESSTC will take a record of two victories and one setback into today's match at Swarthmore. The Warriors hold decisions over Drexel and New York University, while the loss was inflicted by Ursinus.

Jean Hecht will handle the number one singles division, while Pauline "Polly" Shetlock and Elaine Hardenbergh round out the singles bracket.

The doubles teams from ESSTC will feature Janice Hudak and Mary Martin and Carol Mosser and Ethel Moyer.

Date Set For Varsity 'S' Banquet At Penn-Stroud Hotel

Robert J. Christenberry, commissioner of the New York State Boxing Association, will speak to the Stroudsburg High Varsity "S" club on Wednesday, May 21, as previously scheduled, it was announced yesterday by T. Manning "Cap" Curtis, director of athletics at Stroudsburg High. The affair will be held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

The date of May 21 was originally set for the affair, but it was believed until yesterday that the date would have to be changed to fit in with the plans of Christenberry, who virtually each day faces a full schedule in his battle to clean up the boxing game.

Public
Curtis reminded everyone that the sports banquet is open to the public, at $2.50 per person.

Lettermen from the high school will be honored at the banquet, which will be an annual affair in the future. The club was formed at last year's Curtis Testimonial dinner.

Clearview Downs Smithfield, 19-5

Minisink Hills—Clearview School scored 15 runs in the fourth inning Monday and coasted to a 19-5 softball victory over Smithfield, here on the losing team's home grounds. Graydon Miller, a right hander, pitched the distance for Clearview, while Dickinson did the pitching for Smithfield.

More Runs
Clearview also scored three runs in the first and one in the seventh and final frame. Smithfield came up with one counter in the third and five in the bottom of the seventh.

Frank LaBar was the big gun at the plate for the winning team, blasting out a home run and two triples, the four-sack wallop coming in the big 19th inning. Calvin Frantz also tripled for Smithfield.

Legion Club To Hold Pair Of Practices

George N. Kemp American Legion Post junior baseball team will hold its initial practice session of the season today, it was announced yesterday by Tom Carmella, team coach. The drill session will take place at the East Stroudsburg Playground, at 6 p.m.

A second practice session is listed for the same field on Saturday, at 2 p.m.

Selection
Carmella announced that the team for the coming campaign will be selected following Saturday's drill.

Del Davis, former professional player in the New York Yankees' farm system and assistant football coach at East Stroudsburg High school, will manage the club this season, assisted by Carmella.

The club is open to any boy who has reached his 13th birthday as of January 1, or younger.

Court Hands Down Support Order

Harley W. Frable, Kresgeville trucker, was ordered in court yesterday to pay $115 monthly toward support of his wife and two children. Frable had been charged with desertion and non-support. The hearing was before President Judge Fred W. Davis.
